New troops take over Wisconsin

By The Associated Press

One thousand fresh troops of the National Guard marched onto the University of Wisconsin campus Friday as student picketing continued, part of a wave of student unrest plaguing many of the nation's college campuses.

The new troops were sent to the Madison campus by Wisconsin Gov. Warren P. Knowles to relieve 900 Guardsmen on duty there to aid about 600 policemen.

With the student demonstration going into its fifth day at Madison, a student leader told a Friday morning rally that "for every National Guardsman the governor brings on campus, we have two more students."

The Wisconsin students were demonstrating for a number of demands dealing with Negro students, including establishment of a black studies center.

On other campuses there were these developments:

University of Chicago — Students who had occupied the administration building for 15 days left the building after they voted 3 to 1 to end the sit-in. The administration had made the end of the take-over a condition for negotiations. The students also reportedly voted down a motion to break into files of the university "bureaucracy."

University of Massachusetts — Administration and student union buildings on the Amherst campus were evacuated and searched by police after five anonymous telephone calls reporting bombs had been placed in the buildings. None were found.

Mississippi Valley State College — An all-night meeting of a student-faculty committee brought agreement Friday on a number of issues which led to a student boycott of classes at this all-Negro school at Itta Bena, Miss. Dr. J.H. White, president of the college, called the negotiating session.

Duke University — A battalion of 500 National Guardsmen waited at a nearby armory, under orders not to go onto the Durham, N.C. campus until needed.

Tuna craft later freed by captor

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A Peruvian navy gunboat fired Friday on American tuna boats fishing off the Peruvian coast. One was reported damaged and another was captured and later released.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers summoned Peruvian Ambassador Fernando Berckemeyer to the State Department in Washington. The Peruvian diplomat said the American boats had been operating in his country's waters without a license.

No Americans were reported injured in the incident, although the skipper of one U.S. boat said his craft was peppered with machine-gun fire before other American fishing boats clustered around his boat, driving off the Peruvain boat. The Americans then fled into Ecuadorian waters.

Varying reports indicated the incident took place between 26 and 45 miles out in the Pacific.

The Peruvian Naval Ministry said the captured boat, the Mariner, was set free at the northern Peruvian port of Talara after the captain, identified elsewhere as Joseph Lewis of San Diego, Calif., paid a fine. The amount of the fine was not specified.

In Washington, angry congressmen demanded U.S. Navy protection for the American seamen and called the Peruvian action a threat to American lives and property. U.S.-Peruvian relations have been deteriorating since Peru's new military government seized property of a U.S.-owned oil firm in Peru last October.

The incident was the latest of several between U.S. fishing boats and authorities of western South American countries that claim territorial waters far broader than limits recognized by the United States.

The Peruvian Naval Ministry said the Mariner was taken by Peruvian naval personnel to Talara, where the port captain made a summary investigation and ordered payment of the fine.

Naval authorities said none of the Mariner's 13 crewmen was injured in the encounter. The Peruvians said the only shots fired were from rifles aboard the torpedo boat.

But the owner of another U.S. boat, the San Juan, which had sent urgent radio messages intercepted in California, said his boat was hit by 60 machine gun bullets.

Britain guarantees West Berlin's safety

BERLIN (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the people of Communist-threatened West Berlin Friday that "your security is guaranteed."

"We shall continue—you can count on this—to do all that is in our power to insure that your freedom is preserved," the British leader told a civic luncheon in a restored 17th century castle.

Wilson was referring to Soviet and East German threats to West Germany if a new president is chosen by federal electors in West Berlin as scheduled March 5.

Britain shares responsibility for West Berlin with the United States and France under World War II agreements.

Wilson obviously was aware of the timing of his visit and used it to give the most clear cut statement of a Berlin commitment by any allied leader since the present situation began looking like another Berlin crisis.

Wilson said Berliners must be able to pursue their lives in peace, freedom and prosperity in the same way as the inhabitants of other cities in Western Europe.

Wilson's host at the luncheon, Lord Mayor Klaus Schuetz, thanked him for his continued interest in the city and told him that British "solidarity and friendship" is appreciated.

In a later television address, Wilson assured the West Berliners that Britain stands by them "now and in the future."

British troops, Wilson emphasized, will remain in West Berlin, whose 2.2 million people have been showing signs of nervousness over the Communist barrage of threats.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda timed a new protest against the presidential election in West Berlin to coincide with Wilson's visit. It indicated the Soviet Union would support any countermeasures East Germany might take.

Viet Cong orders increased pressure

SAIGON (AP) — (AP) — The Viet Cong's military command ordered its forces Friday to "launch new simultaneous attacks" and "increase military pressure on all fronts" in the new year.

The order appeared to refer to the entire year and not to Tet, the lunar new year beginning Monday. The Viet Cong has called a seven-day cease-fire for Tet beginning Saturday and broadcasters have repeatedly assured the South Vietnamese there will be no attacks during the holiday.

Mindful that the enemy launched its biggest offensive of the war during a cease-fire at Tet last year, the allied command is taking no chances.

For the second straight day, U.S. B52 Stratofortresses heavily attacked the invasion routes to Saigon, dumping 5,000 bombs on suspected enemy targets from 28 miles northeast of the capital to 75 miles northwest.

The Viet Cong order was broadcast by clandestine radio and Radio Hanoi. It declared the war against the U.S. and South Vietnamese forces "must be intensified to insure that the new year is the most glorious and most victorious in our history."

The order called on Viet Cong units "to smash, kill, wipe out and liquidate" South Vietnamese government officials and "kill all pacification teams."

New trap to be used on oil well

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Union Oil Co. said Friday it plans to lower a large inverted funnel over a fissure in the ocean floor to try to trap crude oil which continues to seep into the sea.

The large steel funnel would cover the mouth of a crack that extends 250 feet below ground level to an oil-bearing sand, charged with oil and gas over a 11½-day period earlier this month when an oil well blew out.

The residual leak since the well was plugged Saturday has been estimated at five to 10 gallons an hour by Union.

Israel opens air, ground pocket probe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel mounted a ground and air attack Friday against a suspected Arab guerrilla pocket at Qatef inside Jordan just south of the Sea of Galilee.

Two Israeli jet fighters pounded the border spot for 25 minutes and Israeli ground troops backed up the planes, an Israeli army spokesman said.

Israel claimed that the guerrillas had prompted the attack by firing bazookas and small arms at an Israeli army patrol.

In action elsewhere, another Israeli patrol was fired upon in the occupied town of Hebron south of Jerusalem. It returned fire.

The army said there were no Israeli casualties in either incident.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Cairo that Egypt and the United States have agreed in principle to resume diplomatic relations.

Relations between the two countries were broken off during the Arab-Israeli war in June 1967.

The report said that Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser had received a message from President Nixon offering to reestablish relations with Egypt.

Plane brings greetings

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Teamsters president Jummy Hoffa, serving a term in the federal penitentiary here, received 56th birthday greetings Friday from a banner attached to the tail of a plane.

His third wife, Josephine, accompanied by the family's priest the Rt. Rev. Msgr. W. Joyce Russell of Wheaton, Md., saw the plane fly over the prison from Lewisburg Airport after they visited Hoffa.

The open cockpit biplane was rented from National Aerial Advertising, Inc., of North Reading, Mass.

Milford resident dies in car-truck accident

MILFORD — Andrew Deehan, 38, of Milford, Friday at 3:34 p.m. was pronounced dead at the scene of a car-truck accident on Rt. Six by Pike County Coroner H. James Crellin.

Driver of the car, John A. Miller, 41, of Hawley, is in St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, N.Y.

A spokesman at the hospital said Miller's condition was guarded. No list of injuries were available.

According to State Police at Milford, their investigation is not complete as they are unable to talk with Miller.

However, police said Deehan was driving a truck and traveling east on Rt. Six and the Miller car was traveling west.

As the two vehicles were negotiating a curve in the highway the left front of the Miller car and the left rear of the truck collided.

The pickup truck rolled over on its roof and skidded on the snow down an embankment coming to a stop next to a tree.

Sirhan's defense argues client victim of 'trance'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy while "in a trance," his defense said Friday.

"There is no doubt," attorney Emile Zola Berman told Sirhan's first-degree murder jury, "and we have told you this from the beginning: That he did, in fact, fire the shot that killed Sen. Kennedy.

"The killing was unplanned and undeliberate, impulsive and without premeditation or malice, totally a product of a sick, obsessed mind and personality."

"At the actual moment of the shooting, he was out of contact with reality, in a trance in which he had no voluntary control over his will, his judgment, his feelings or his action."

Berman said Sirhan was an admirer of Kennedy until shortly before the assassination, when the 42-year-old Senator from New York advocated sending jet planes to Israel.

"That did it!" Berman added of events which he said led Sirhan into a weird world of fantasy and hatred.

When Berman—a bald 66-year-old New Yorker who is one of three defenders—finished his 20-minute opening statement to the jury of eight men and four women, the state began calling witnesses to try to prove that Sirhan shot Kennedy June 5, 1968, with malice and premeditation.

Premeditated murder in California carries a penalty of life imprisonment or death in the gas chamber, with the jury making the choice if it convicts.

Sirhan is not pleading legal insanity in his defense. Rather, his lawyers are relying on a California precedent of diminished responsibility.

Under this, a defendant may be legally sane yet still not responsible for his actions because of his mental or emotional background.

Dock forces accept pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Longshoremen voted Friday to accept a new work contract covering the Port of New York, a vote that could mean a quick end to the eight-week-old strike on the East and Gulf coasts.

Union sources said the rank and file voted three to one to ratify a tentative agreement reached last month and said the men would be back on New York piers by Saturday morning.

Underworld king dies in prison

NEW YORK (AP) — To the world, Vito Genovese was "The King of the Racketeers." To the underworld, he was so feared he could run the vast, shadowy Mafia empire from his prison cell.

He came to America from Italy as a teen-ager, in steerage. He rose in New York's criminal hierarchy, and lived in a sprawling mansion on the ocean in Atlantic Highlands, N.J.

He was arrested three times on homicide charges in 1925, 1934 and 1945, but was never convicted. He could say to his mother-in-law when his wife left him in 1952: "What she step on my heart for?"

Genovese died Friday at the medical center for federal prisoners in Springfield, Mo., at the age of 71 of congestive heart failure. The Justice Department announced his death in Washington, D.C.

He was serving a 15-year sentence for trafficking in narcotics, the only major charge on which the government was ever able to convict him, despite 43 indictments over the years.

Oswald 'driven' away

Shaw trial witnesses see three flee

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Prosecution witnesses at the Clay Shaw conspiracy trial told Friday of seeing two men with a gun in a window and a fleeing Lee Harvey Oswald driven away by a swarthy man after President Kennedy's assassination.

A parade of Texas witnesses gave details of the Dallas slaying in Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's attempt to prove Kennedy was killed in a conspiratorial crossfire. Shaw, 55, is charged with plotting to kill Kennedy.

The testimony conflicted with the Warren Commission's conclusion that Oswald alone killed Kennedy. The commission found no credible evidence of a conspiracy, and its findings have, in effect, gone on trial with Shaw.

Shaw's attorneys bitterly protested the repeated showing of a home movie of the assassination. A verbal battle erupted in a darkened courtroom when the film was stopped on the frame showing Kennedy's head exploded by a shot.

"Objection! They're trying to prejudice this jury," yelled defense attorney William Wegmann, leaping to his feet. Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr., his voice hoarse after four weeks of the trial, called for order amid a babble of voices.

The jury saw the film twice Friday, making a total of six times in two days. Said the judge: "They can run it a hundred times if they want to."

It was Roger Dean Craig, a former Dallas deputy sheriff now living in New Orleans, who testified he saw Oswald run down a slope from the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas about 20 minutes after the assassination on Nov. 22, 1963. Craig said Oswald jumped into a waiting station wagon driven by a dark-complexioned man.

Craig, whose story was discounted by the Warren Commission, testified he reported what he saw to Capt. J. W. Fritz of the Dallas police and later, in Fritz's office, identified Oswald.

"He said, 'That station wagon belongs to Mrs. Paine. Don't try to drag her into this.'" Craig testified. "He leaned back in his chair and said, 'Everybody will know who I am now.'" (The Mrs. Paine was Ruth Paine of Irving, Tex., a friend of Oswald and his wife.)

In its report, the Warren Commission said it "could not accept important elements of Craig's testimony." The report quoted Fritz as saying a deputy sheriff with a similar story asked to see Fritz, but that "Fritz did not bring him into his office to identify Oswald." Neither did Fritz nor any other officer remember the dramatic Oswald statement quoted by Craig, the report said.

Red China missiles half duds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Possibly half of the intercontinental missiles now being developed by Communist China would fail to reach targets in the United States, according to U.S. officials.

They base this estimate on the experience the United States and the Soviet Union had in testing early model liquid fuel missiles. Red China is believed to be following generally the same development track.

Although its missile program seems to have slipped, Red China is expected to have about 20 big ICBMs in launching position by 1975.

If even half of these weapons struck major U.S. cities, they could inflict heavey destruction and perhaps millions of casualties.

Red China in December tested a hydrogen bomb with a blast equivalent of 3 million tons of TNT.

That bomb was dropped from an airplane, but U.S. experts anticipate that Chinese nuclear scientists and engineers will have little trouble fashioning missile warheads with comparable punch.

The Chinese are not considered likely to advance to decoy devices and "penetration aids" for at least 10 years, so their missiles should not present this problem to U.S. defenses at least at the outset.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, now reviewing the Sentinel antimissile program in light of congressional and public opposition to the project, said Thursday the Sentinel would defend the United States against any possible attack from Red China.

While a decision on building the Sentinel is not scheduled until early next month, Laird's recent statements have sounded like arguments for carrying on with deployment of the system.

Five die as Ayub gives in to pressure, frees rival

KARACHI (AP) — Bowing to massive opposition pressure, President Mohammed Ayub Khan moved Friday to lift Pakistan's state of emergency and released his main political foe from detention as violence swept the nation in a general protest strike.

At least five persons were reported killed and scores injured in a wild day of riots, fires and gun battles that required army intervention in three major cities before Ayub's government dramatically announced it was releasing former Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

Bhutto, 41, symbol of Pakistan's growing protest movement against Ayub's 10-year-old regime, said in an interview by telephone from his home in Lakarna: "Today's strike showed the angry mood of the people the undercurrent of unrest and the rising tensions."

"The government had better make an objective appraisal of these developments," said Bhutto.

Ayub's government announced that the state of emergency will be lifted Monday. It has been in effect for 41 months.

Ayub' decision to terminate the emergency imposed Sept. 6, 1965, during the Indian-Pakistani war appeared to pave the way for a round-table conference with opposition parties next Monday in Rawalpindi.

The eight-party opposition coalition, known as the Democratic Action Committee, is to meet in Lahore Saturday to consider Ayub's invitation.

Bhutto began his publicized hunger strike despite the government announcement, in an apparent move to steal the limelight from Ayub. Bhutto's aides said, however, that he would end his fast Monday, if the president keeps his promises.

The government announcement came as angry mobs took over Pakistan's major cities in a one-day general strike against Ayub's regime.

In one single demonstration in Karachi an estimated 200,000 demonstrators gathered outside the white marble tomb of Mohammad Ali Jinnah, founder of the Pakistan nation, and shouted "Death to Ayub!" and "Ayub is a dog!"

Black supermart closed after year

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Delaware's first venture in black capitalism has failed—killed after one year by hoodlums and fear.

Harry H. Young, Jr., a 42-year-old high school biology teacher, said Friday his dream of making it as a Negro businessman in a Negro neighborhood vanished in a pile of broken windows and a bath of red ink.

"I'm closing down the entire shopping center," Young told a newsman. "It's all over. There's no other way. The insurance was canceled after the place was broken into the 16th time in one year."

South Viet wary as Tet nears

SAIGON (AP) — With mixed feelings of apprehension and hope, South Vietnam and its people are preparing for another Tet—the lunar new year celebrating the end of the hectic year of the monkey and welcoming the year of the rooster.

Overshadowing this year's festivities will be the still grim memories of last year's Viet Cong Tet offensive in which 43 provincial and district capitals were attacked. This year, whether the offensive is repeated or not, the lingering possibility of one will keep many Vietnamese from relaxing in the traditional Tet fashion.

The year of the monkey has been an eventful one for the Vietnamese, many of whom jokingly say that the year was merely living up to its name. There were three Communist offensives, a bombing halt, and now all sides are sitting down in Paris for talks. Entering the new year, there is wide hope that the year of the rooster will herald the return of peace.

Saigon's central market bustles nightly in a free-spending carnival atmosphere of colorfully decorated food stalls, bright neon lights, and loud-speakers at full volume fighting each other over the latest soap contest or pushing smoked antelope meat.

GOPs would ax state scholarships

HARRISBURG (AP) — A quartet of Senate Republicans say they want to make the first cut in Gov. Shafer's proposed $2.52 billion by chopping out an already-existing program — the state scholarship program.

Senate Appropriations Chairman George N. Wade, R-Cumberland, said Friday his group proposes to replace the program — pegged at $60 million in fiscal 1969-1970 — with a large-scale student loan program.

Wade said the proposal now being considered "by our informal committee" would establish an authority to float bonds to form revolving a loan fund which would be replenished by payments by students after they graduate.

The only cost to the state would be paying loan interest while the students were still in school and underwriting loan defaults.

Senate Majority Whip Albert R. Pechan, R-Armstrong, said the group — which includes T. Newell Wood, R-Luzerne, and D. Elmer Hawbaker, R-Franklin — hopes to have legal questions ironed out in time to introduce a bill on the loan idea when the Senate reconvenes Feb. 24.

"If we can replace the scholarship program with a loan fund, we won't have to raise the budget for student aid each year," said the majority whip.

The scholarship program, administered through the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA), currently involves some 67,000 students. The PHEAA also operates a student guarantee loan program.

School administrator degrees challenged

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An official of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction said Friday 12 public school administrators in the state have doctor's degrees from a school in Ohio that are not recognized by the Department.

Dr. William Charlesworth, director of the Bureau of Teacher Education, said one administrator received his degree in 13 days and another in 21 days.

The school, Ohio Christian College, Columbus, says in its brochure: "All courses are designed to be completed in six months. However, it is not necessary to complete a course in six months. The time element is left to the discretion of the student."

The brochure lists a schedule of tuition fees ranging from $100 as a contribution for a honorary degree to $350 for a doctor of philosophy.

In a telephone interview, Dr. Alvin O. Langdon, president of Ohio Christian College, said: "Very few people are familiar with modern trends in education."

"People study English, history, science and math in high school," Langdon said. "College is specialized education. A student must take only subjects of his choice and related subjects."

The Trinity Area School Board in Washington County on Tuesday ordered anyone holding a degree from a college not accredited by the National Council of Accreditation or the state Bureau of Teacher Education to show cause why "they should not be relieved of all duties and privileges and extra compensation not secure by tenure."

Charles R. Clark, president of the board, said the board decided on the action after hearing that four administrators in the system had received doctor's degrees from Ohio Christian College. Clark said the four had not asked for salary raises on basis of the degrees, nor had they notified the board formally that they had received the degrees.

Heads intergovernmental relations

Agnew to oil government wheels

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon suggested Friday an eventual transfer of some federal powers to state and local agencies as he established machinery for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to coordinate relations among the various levels of government.

In signing an executive order that created an office of Intergovernmental Relations under Agnew's supervision, Nixon said: "By this action the vice president will become more directly and vitally involved in our effort to move government closer to the people and to make it more responsible to their will."

Noting that the new office will aid in "formulation of proposals to develop a broad and relevant dispersal of authority," the President said it "will facilitate an orderly transfer of appropriate functions to state and local government."

Asked about what specific programs the Nixon administration might have in mind for transfer to states and localities, Agnew said at a news conference "I wouldn't think of trying to designate these" without full consultation with state and local officials.

The vice president designated former Gov. Nils A. Boe of South Dakota as director of the new office. Boe, 55, was constitutionally ineligible to seek a third term in 1968.

By creating the new office, Nixon combined in Agnew functions that previously have been split between the Office of Emergency Preparedness, which has handled federal-state relations, and the vice president, who served as liaison with the cities.

In addition to coordinating federal-state-local relations, Nixon said Agnew "is to help make the federal executive more sensitive and receptive to the views of state and local officials and to serve as the focal point where specific difficulties may be resolved."

Dunnerveder-de Brieder Grundsi know vaas good is

By FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

TRACHSVILLE — The hearty and healthy roar of laughter, touched off by old-fashioned wit and humor of the Pennsylvania Germans, filled the Trachsville Firehouse Thursday night when some 300 "Brieder Grundsi" joined to celebrate their 19th annual gathering.

"Om siva Uhr", Habtmon Raymond Andrews called "De neinzayt Fersommling for da Grundsow Lodge Nummer Sexa fon Monroe Kounty on da Pohopoco", to order.

What followed was a bombastic two-hour agenda of "wunderbara gute Musik; s'beschta essa mit blendy doo; ond heitera Deitsche Schwetzer" — lively music, an excellent satisfying meal and wonderful speakers.

The Rev. Clarence Rahn of Temple, a well recognized Pennsylvania German speaker, returned after many past engagements with the Lodge with his "Fesht Rade" which was based on a simple proverb "Es ist net gute wan alles uff en Haufe is." (Nothing is gained from anything if it is not used and only left to accumulate.)

The philosophy of snow shoveling or "Schnee Shepa" was detailed by a young guest speaker from New Tripoli, Donald Breininger, telling his story, in everything that is beautiful, there is an aspect of difficulty or danger involved such as a quiet field of snow which becomes a "buckel-weh" or back-breaker when it has to be removed.

Many stories were told in dialect after the family-style servings of the traditional "Hame groeschtSchungeflaysch un Hame Gamochta wersch't" (homemade ham and sausage.)

Musick darrich's Fescht Essa — music for dining — was provided by Leroy Heffentrager un sei Deitchie Band.

"Die richdicha Dawg Wedder Barichda", (the Groundhog's weather predictions) were given by Rawd member Elmer Kreger.

Among the guests were 17 representatives from six other Grudsow lodges from Pennsylvania German areas including Allentown, East Greenville, Schuylkill County, Stroudsburg, Carbon County and Berks County.

Die dreitzae ombtsleit from Lodge Sexa were re-elected upon a motion made by Roger Christman and LeRoy Hinton during the Lodge G'shefta (business meeting).

Habton, Raymond Andrews, Kresgeville; Schreiver, Rev. Adan A. Bohner, pastor emeritus, Kunkletown; Gelthaver, R.V. Kresge, Effort and Fuder Meischder, Dean Semmel, Bethlehem.

Member of S'Rawd are Theodore Boltinger, Allison Smith, Carl Kresge, Paul Held, William Kresge, Leon Keller, Herman Barlieb, Stinson Stempler and Elmer Kreger. Smith, Kresge and Keller were reported absent due to sickness.

The annual gathering of Grundsow Lodge Sexa of the West End is a mouth-opener for many reasons-hearty laughter, lively singing and to join their abilities to digest the biggest, full-bodied, home-styled meal of the year.

Up Milford Way

Rt. 209 'ulcer route'

By NORMAN B. LEHDE

MILFORD — In reply to their resolution requesting that, when Route 209, Stroudsburg to Milford, is relocated, that the construction embrace four traffic lanes, the Pike County Chamber of Commerce has been informed that this may be—but, at some time in the future.

Thomas J. Harrington, District Engineer for District 4-0, which embraces Pike, Wayne, Bradford, Susquehanna, Wyoming, Lackwaxanna and Luzerne counties, in a communication to the Chamber, notes that the new highway will be designed as a Class II highway with two 12 foot travel lanes and paved shoulders. This construction will be financed by the Federal government since the CORPS OF Engineers are obligated to replace the existing facilities.

Harrington writes however, that the Pennsylvania Department of Highways will acquire sufficient right of way for the construction of two additional lanes at such time as it is financially possible to build them.

If the purported influx of visitors, due to the Tocks Island project, has any degree of accuracy you can expect 209, which with its present flow of trucks and oversize loads, is an ulcer route, to continue to be a center of discussion.

THE DEATH of 13-year-old Donald Edward Cole cast a pall of gloom over the village on Tuesday. On every side one hear comment on what a pleasant, cooperative youngster he had been. We extend our deepest sympathy to his parents, Stanley and Dorothy Cole, and the other members of the family.

A session of the Pike County Court is scheduled for Monday.

Our area survived the storm of last weekend in far better condition than our neighbors in the metropolitan area. A number of local people, who were traveling at the time of the storm, had some very exciting stories to relate upon their arrival home.

INTEREST appears to be building up in the meeting sponsored by TAP (Technical Action Panel) of Pike and Wayne counties, at the Pinchot Institute on Thursday, Feb. 20, at 1 p.m.

The meeting has been arranged to discuss plans to utilize second and third growth timber in the two conties, both for profit and for good forest management.

The establishment of a depot or central point where local persons, with limited transportation equipment, may take their timber and from which point the company would, after basic processing, transport it to their operational headquarters, is expected to form the central theme of discussion at the meeting next Thursday.

The session is open to the public and all owners of forest land, private or public, are being encouraged to attend by the TAP executive committee, which is headed by Work Unit Conservationist George Coller of the Soil Conservation Service.

Other members of the execuutive committee are: Charles Kasten, Federal Housing Administration; Mrs. Beulah Teel, ASCS; Joseph Staley and John Creighton, Agricultural Extension agents, and Jacob Kintz and Anthony Santalli of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters.

Delval realizes $3,000 savings

MILFORD — The Delaware Valley Area School District will save about $3,000 as the result of its newly adopted tax collection rate schedule.

Board of directors this week adopted the district's first uniformed fee schedule for the seven tax collectors.

The board established a one dollar fee for each tax bill. This means that the district will have to pay $7,000 for its 7,000 tax bills.

Leonard Mattar, board president, said Friday afternoon that previous fees for tax collectors was inequitable.

He explained that collectors were paid on a flat salary and per centages. This meant that in Delaware Township, the collector was receiving $700 for sending out 2,000 tax bills while in Matamoras the collector was getting $825 for sending out 850 tax bills.

Per centage

Other tax collectors were paid on the basis of two to three per cent on the tax collection receipts.

The new one dollar rate for each tax bills was endorsed in a four-to-two decision Thursday night following a lengthy meeting with tax collectors last week.

Mattar and board secretary Mrs. Patricia Marley cast the only dissenting votes.

Mattar said he voted no to the proposal because "I didn't think the number was right." He did not reveal other figures which were proposed for tax collectors. He said, however, that they "ranged all over the globe."

The new tax collectors' fee schedule will become effective in 1970.

As a comparison, the Pleasant Valley School District in Monroe County is paying its tax collectors straight salaries which total $6,700. The collectors receive about 1.4 per cent of the receipts.

The Stroudsburg Area School District adopted a straight salary schedule totaling $9,600. The salaries range from $600 to $3,700.

The Pocono Mountains School District also has a salaried compensation which totals $18,100. The salaries range from $1,025 to $3,300.

The East Stroudsburg Area School District set a rate of 35 cents per tax bill.

Mrs. Throne, Pen Argyl, rites today

PEN ARGYL — Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. today for Mrs. Martha Thorne of Pen Argyl who died as the result of injuries suffered when she was hit by a tractor trailer Tuesday.

Mrs. Thorne, 73, of 749 W. Pennsylvania Ave., died Wednesday in Allentown General Hospital. She was struck by a tractor trailer near her home at 3 p.m. Tuesday. She had suffered a fractured skull and ribs.

Pen Argyl Police Chief Dwayne Honey said witnesses told him Mrs. Thorne was struck as she walked into the path of the rig. Driver was Francis J. Dedies, 28, of 219 W. Laurel Ave., Bethlehem.

Mrs. Thorne was born in New Jersey and resided in Pen Argyl for 12 years.

The funeral today will be in the Swoyer Funeral Home, Pen Argyl, with Capt. Peter Stritzinger of the Salvation Army, Pen Argyl, officiating. Burial will be in Cedar Ridge Cemetery, Blairstown, N.J.

She is survived by her husband, Roy; one sister, Mrs. Jennie Morris of Easton and one brother, Russell Dalrymple of Everittstown, N.J.

Thief takes lawn mower

SOUTH STERLING — A theft at the Pine Grove Cemetery has been revealed by a member of the Cemetery Assn., who noted that the maintenance building at the cemetery has been broken into, and two power lawn mowers, one brand new, have been stolen.

The thief should be easy to spot. Nobody's transporting lawn mowers in the Poconos in February.

Police protection

Township aids East Bangor

EAST BANGOR — The Upper Mt. Bethel Township supervisors have agreed to provide emergency protection to the Borough of East Bangor.

East Bangor Mayor Edward Abbott said Friday afternoon he knew nothing of this action and "I have not been advised of such a move."

Councilmen Robert Phillips and Robert Messinger requested the emergency police protection from the township.

The borough's two part-time police officers resigned Monday night when council refused to grant them a 60 cent salary increase.

Mayor Abbott defended the two policemen and since then has argued that police protection would cost the borough more if they did not have the services of the two part-time officers.

Abbott said that currently all police calls are monitored by the Blue Mountain Control Center and doubted very much if Upper Mt. Bethel police will come into the borough. He said the Blue Mountain Control Center has been informed to call State Police for any calls within the borough.

Upper Mt. Bethel agreed to provide a 30 day emergency service. A joint meeting is planned between supervisors and councilmen to discuss a more permanent police protection arrangement.

Western Pocono Jaycees survey deadline extended

BRODHEADSVILLE — The Community Attitude Survey being sponsored by the Western Pocono Jaycees has been extended to Friday, Feb. 21, John Neff, president, announced.

The Jaycees started distribution of 1,500 questionnaires on Feb. 1 within the townships of Ross, Eldred, Polk and Chestnuthill to evaluate community resources and make a plan for improvement projects.

Sunday message

NEWFOUNDLAND — "The Great Alternative" will be the theme of the message at Central United Methodist Church, Honesdale, at 11 a.m. Sunday, when the Rev. Dr. Frederick G. Fulmer, retired Moravian pastor, fills the pulpit for the Rev. Rexford Crounse.

Rebekah's meet

STERLING — The Sterling I.O.O.F. Hall will be the setting for a card and domino party on February 21 at 8 p.m., sponsored by Lady Hamlin Rebekah Lodge.

Sunflower blossoming

SOUTH STERLING — Spring is nearly here.

The Paul Thomases report a sunflower blossom on their nearly five-foot plant which was started in a pot on the windowsill, outgrew its spot, and had to be placed on the floor.

Last summer, the Thomases grew 15-foot sunflowers that had to be propped up and braced and babied through every windstorm. If this sunflower is of the same breed, they may have to cut a hole in the ceiling soon!

Monroe County drug traffic heavy — cost high

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the seriousness of the narcotics problem in Monroe County. The reports of law, medical and ministerial officials will cover the past, present and future of drug traffic in the area.)

By JAMES RILEY
Pocono Record Editor

STROUDSBURG — Two questions are prevalent among those involved in the traffic of narcotics in Monroe County.

Authorities want to know where it comes from: The answer is everywhere.

Those "hooked" on drugs want to know the cost? It is expensive.

The answers are easy, but a remedy for the many problems arising from drug traffic are growing in numbers and complexity each day.

Philip H. Williams, Monroe County district attorney, explained that the major share of narcotics coming into this area is brought from New York and Philadelphia.

The "trade" route continually changes. Until recently two adults, since arrested, are believed to have brought most of the dope directly to the Stroudsburgs from Philadelphia.

Right now it is not known if an individual or a combination of individuals from Monroe County and surrounding areas are delivering the commodity to the "neighboring community". There is a possibility narcotics are being delivered directly by the organized crime syndicates in both New York and Philadelphia.

Williams said it is a known fact that drugs are brought to a nearby community and then divided to take care of those addicts living in surrounding communities.

Monroe County, according to a recent report by Pennsylvania Attorney General William C. Sennett, is under the control of crime boss Carlo Gambino, New York, and branch boss Russell Bufalino, Kingston, Pa.

Williams reports authorities feel narcotics are now being brought directly from a neighboring community to Monroe County by a group of teenagers, who then spread their wares to those in need.

There is also a strong feeling that a large quantity of drugs is being purchased by Monroe County teenagers in Port Jervis, N.Y. There is a heavy traffic of teenagers between Monroe County and Port Jervis because of the fact that the legal drinking age in New York State is 18, as opposed to 21 in Pennsylvania.

Orange County, which includes Port Jervis, has a heavy traffic of narcotics and in recent months has featured a number of raids and a long list of arrests.

Narcotics being brought into Monroe County are going at a stiff price for teenagers, or for adults for that matter.

According to Williams, a single marijuana cigarette is selling for one dollar. A drug commonly referred to as speed is selling for between three and five dollars per tablet. LSD tablets are priced at five dollars and up.

The district attorney's office has received many reports of the presence and use of narcotics in four area high schools. The most reports have involved Stroudsburg High, followed by East Stroudsburg, Pocono Mountain and Pleasant Valley in that order. However, the use of drugs in the latter school is at a minimum, Williams explained.

Williams further explained that the use of narcotics and drug traffic at East Stroudsburg State College has also been at a minimum. "The college students have not been a major problem, although there have been some reports of ESSC students using narcotics, both on and off the campus," Williams explained.

Although an undermanned force of lawmen are working overtime to solve the problem, the narcotic mystery persists. Area teenagers still find the necessary funds to purchase drugs, even at the present rising price. Stamping out the presence of narcotics in Monroe County demands the cooperation of the people with law enforcing agencies.

Banning class creates void

Stroudsburg High School has discontinued its journalism class for the present year—at least.

Although an elective, the absence of this course will create a void in the educational pattern of students attending Stroudsburg High. The students who were exposed to this course now find themselves in a position of not knowing whether or not they would like to pursue this line of study in college.

Edward Burnett, an English teacher, had prepared for this course by studying at Syracuse University last summer. He had worked hard to formulate the course of study and according to reports it was a popular class.

However, apparently a slash between publishing "The Mountaineer," the school newspaper, and "The Last Word," an off-school property publication by students who were also involved in publishing "The Mountaineer," brought about the demise of the journalism course.

Those students involved in both publications should have put the bulk of their energy into "The Mountaineer," simply because it is a school project, as is the band, basketball team, football squad or any extra curricular activity.

There is no reason that both publications couldn't work together, although the school paper should have priority. If school authorities think "The Last Word" has harmed the school paper, it's sale on school property should have been banned.

Some of content of "The Last Word" is good, other not so good, especially the obvious verbal attack on a member or members of the faculty. Free speech must be protected, but it must also be remembered that those publishing "The Last Word" are high school youngsters, who even in this modern age are expected to treat faculty members with respect.

But, the real loss is to those who were part of the journalism course. They are deprived of an outlet for a desire to seek knowledge and the first step in what could be a future career.

The journalism profession is seeking young people who are interested in the publication of newspapers and bringing the story as it is to the eyes of the people. Even if it took several years to mold a professional journalist, the class would be well worth the effort.

Resumption of the journalism class at Stroudsburg High next September would be welcome news.

Coin Corner

Rich in historic lore

By ROBERT SVENSSON

When students of coins explore the birth of America, they confine their interest, all too frequently, to the New England and Eastern areas. They should take a long look at Louisiana and its crescent city, New Orleans. It is an area rich in numismatic lore.

New Orleans was founded 250 years ago. The city just ended a year-long celebration marking its birth in 1718. New Orleans has lived under the rule of France, Spain, the United States, and of course, the Confederate States of America.

During the War of 1812 with the British, New Orleans proved to be a bloody area. It was here that Andrew Jackson defeated the British along with their plan to conquer the Gulf of Mexico region. Sadly, the battle need never have been fought because the War of 1812 had already been concluded. The combatants were not informed before the fighting began.

Civil War

Coin collector interest in New Orleans is focused on the Civil War period when the United States Mint in that city was taken over by the Confederate government.

Lack of bullion prevented the Confederacy from using the facilities of the Mint.

Nixon testing Soviet Union

John A. Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — With his ambitious foreign policy initiatives, President Richard Nixon is putting the good faith and good intentions of Soviet leaders to an early test.

The president is exploring the application of four-power diplomacy in the Middle East. He is going to Europe later this month in what he clearly hopes will serve as prelude for top-level talks with the Kremlin.

President Johnson, on the basis of some small Soviet assists, was convinced to the end that Russian leaders sincerely wanted to ease world tensions. Nixon is now pushing for more graphic illustrations from the Kremlin.

In following this course, Nixon is exploiting the flexibility available to a new president who is unencumbered with policy determinations of the past. There are some risks involved, however, and he is well aware of them.

There is, for example, considerable skepticism among experts here, about Russia's long-range goals in the Middle East. The experts generally agree, as reported here previously, that the Kremlin wants to avoid a new shooting war now between the Arabs and the Israelis.

Some top authorities doubt, however, that Soviet leaders want to move towards a permanent solution for the problems of the Middle East. They think that, despite Moscow's expressed desires for a solution, the Kremlin will frustrate any hopes for a permanent settlement.

These experts note that outright deception has often been a feature of Russian diplomacy—as in Moscow's breaking of the nuclear test moratorium in 1961 and the subsequent introduction of missiles into Cuba, while, any such action was being denied by Soviet diplomats.

In addition, some officials wonder whether France can play an even-handed four-power role in the Middle East, in view of what they regard as anti-Israel (and even anti-semitic) attitudes of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Nixon's trip

There are risks, too, in President Nixon's trip to Europe.

Only a couple of weeks ago Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., told newsmen he had heard a report that Soviet leaders were about to subject Rumania to disciplinary action of the sort employed against Czechoslovakia last summer. The senator's statement was not confirmed by other authorities.

The best reading available here is that Russia is, indeed, putting heavy pressure on the Rumania government of party chief Nikolai Ceausescu, to make that government conform to the Moscow line. No Russian-led invasion, as in Czechoslovakia, is now expected, however.

There is a feeling among U.S. experts that the example of Czechoslovakia makes the threat of similar action enough to chasten the Soviet satellites in Eastern Europe.

However, a marked escalation of tensions in eastern Europe could be an embarrassment for the new President and a blow to his plans even if the worst implications of Dirksen's report failed to materialize. A major flare-up in Berlin could have the same effect.

With increasing speculation, here and in Moscow, about possible changes in the Kremlin's top leadership, there is also the chance that the Soviet will have a new set of leaders before Mr. Nixon can complete all of his preliminaries and move towards top-level talks with Moscow.

Treaty action

Dirksen made his comments in discussing the ratification prospects for the nuclear non-proliferation treaty. President Nixon has since called for early Senate action on the treaty and Senate leaders have moved to comply.

Hearings on the treaty have been scheduled for next week, after Congress returns from its Lincoln Day recess. Leaders in both parties are supporting the treaty, and its approval is expected. There could be a good deal of debate, however, and that could be an embarrassment for Mr. Nixon too.

So far, opposition to the treaty has been led by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who was candidate Nixon's man-in-the South and credited with keeping Southern delegations in line to assure Nixon's nomination at the GOP national convention. Thurmond is one of the Senate's champion long-distance orators.

Opponents are expected to offer a reservation to the treaty—a unilateral qualification by the United States to its terms which are designed to curb the spread of nuclear weapons. That is a parliamentary technique often employed in treaty debates.

Extensive debate on the non-proliferation treaty, with talks of a reservation by the United States, will not help Nixon's image, especially if, as now seems possible, the debate takes place here while Mr. Nixon is trying to lay the groundwork for U.S. policy in visits with leaders of the European Alliance.

Learning or burning?

WASHINGTON — It is dangerous to expect that the campus violence, in which so few have done so much harm to so many, is ending.

The outlook is not all bleak, but the end of the worst is not in sight.

Student resistance to student violence is getting stronger.

The lure of the campus destructionists, primarily the Students for a Democratic Society, to draw fellow students to their purposes is getting weaker.

But — and this needs to be understood right now — the SDS, the Black Panthers and other violence-prone groups are beginning to resort to more force not because they see themselves winning but because they see themselves losing.

This may well prove to be the climactic period of the campus destructionists, and it is likely to be the most perilous. The non-violent students, whose ranks are growing, the faculty and the administrators on every campus will need to be especially alert to what lies ahead because the antireform, tear-down revolters are beginning to act out of desperation.

Because destruction is their only goal and violence their only tactic, their inevitable response to waning influence is more violence.

This is why more campus violence is in the making, although the thing which is bringing it about -- more students saying no to the destructionists — is favorable.

The violent student revolters are at their work 24 hours a day. The response among the moderate students must be equally active and equally well organized.

The showoff

Don MacLean

Overseas watchdog

WASHINGTON — Sen. Stephen M. Young (D., Ohio) has become a watchdog of our military expenditures overseas. Recently he criticized the top-heavy officer cadre in Saigon and now he has turned his attention on our forces in Europe.

"Unfortunately," he said, "we maintain more than 230,000 highly trained soldiers and airmen in West Germany. These men should have been reassigned months, or years, ago to combat in Vietnam — or returned to the United States.

During the past 20 years, in our tank maneuvers in Germany, many trees have been destroyed. For every tree knocked down, our government must pay about $75.

"The Germans don't overlook anything. If one of our vehicles kills a hen, our government is billed not only for the hen, but for the eggs it might have laid had it lived a normal life span! In this context, I can only wonder how much we are charged should we kill a rooster . . ."

The Internal Revenue Service said it received a return from a bachelor, who listed a child as a dependent.

The IRS returned his form with a note: "Is this a stenographic error?" He wrote back: "It sure was!"

One could almost envy the peace negotiators. It looks as though they'll see Paris in the spring.

Opposed to Spock

Editor, The Record:

When is "free speech" no longer free speech?

The answer is when a person convicted of a crime is paid $2,000 to speak to a bunch of longhairs.

The person who is writing this letter received around $2,000, a year after having done 20 years of honest labor for Uncle Sam, also having received an honorable discharge from the United States Army.

I am sure local residents who marched with Dr. Benjamin Spock in Washington will present him with some flowers donated by the hippies, the beatniks and the flower girls (we have them in Stroudsburg with their pot).

I was told that this letter would not be printed. I am depending on the past reputation of impartiality which your valued newspaper has shown. Thank you.

Praise for hospital

Editor, The Record:

I would be remiss if I were not to mention how fortunate I was to have been admitted to the General Hospital of Monroe County during my recent illness.

I want to congratulate Monroe County for the fine management of its hospital.

One could not help but be aware of the modern facilities and the great efficiency displayed in all areas. As for the nurses, aides, and others, to use an old cliche, they went above and beyond the call of duty in the care of their patients.

The personnel in the intensive care unit and the entire fourth floor was just wonderful. Unlike the metropolitan city hospitals, I was made to feel like a patient rather than a number. I am sure the rest of your hospital functions in the same manner.

I have forwarded a check to the hospital as a small token of my deep appreciation for the many kindnesses extended to me by the staff of the hospital.

Asks to be judged

Editor, The Record:

As an editor of "The Last Word", I would like to tell it like it is!

In refutation to Mrs. John Garver and any other outraged citizen, I would like to point out that there were no nudes or any other obscenities in our publication. As a statement of fact, the Rowen and Martin Laugh-In is far more avant-garde than we will ever be.

As for the communist tendencies, there are none. We merely quote great men, from either side of the Iron Curtain. Chairman Mao is an elderly statesman; so is Charles de Gaulle. They both share some of the same feelings toward the United States. Would we have been critized for quoting Charles de Gaulle? I ask you to answer that?

All we ask is that you approach us with an open mind. Before you put your foot in your mouth, please obtain first hand information. Or, better yet, buy a copy. This is just ideology we stand for; fear and ignorance are prevalent when any new idea comes into being.

This is why I ask; before you condemn our publication as communist propaganda, obtain a copy, read it with an open mind, decide for yourself; don't let your neighbor's opinion or the second rate information from an ill-worded newspaper report sway you.

Make your decision. If you like our avant-garde style, Bully. If you sincerely believe it is trash, say so. You'll be a better person for it.

Support for Knights

Editor, The Record:

The Christian Social Concern Commission of the Swiftwater United Methodist Church heartily supports the action taken by the Knights of Columbus Council launching a "Stamp Out Smut" campaign in the Monroe County area.

We believe firmly in encouraging the right to free speech and free artistic expression.

However, we find that an increasing number of books, magazines, and movies do not serve either of these aims but are merely salacious.

We urge parents of the area to become aware of the seriousness of the problem and the degree to which this smut is available to their children.

Richardon, Saxton pen Sportsman TV spot

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Former baseball star Bobby Richardson goes duck hunting in Utah; actor John Saxon stalks elephant in East Africa and sportsmen Grits Gresham and Joe Brooks fish for coho in British Columbia on "The American Sportsman" Sunday, March 2 at 4 p.m.

Series host Curt Gowdy accompanies Richardson into the brackish marshlands on the northern portion of the Great Salt Lake near Ogden on a powerful air boat. This mode of transportation is necessary because of the shallow waters in this area.

Richardson was the New York Yankees regular second baseman for 10 seasons and a member of several All-Star teams before retiring in 1966. He now represents an insurance company in his native South Carolina and is still actively involved in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Saxon goes on a horse-and-camel safari into the northern frontier district of Kenya, East Africa. No vehicles are permitted in this region, which has an abundance of game and is especially noted for elephant. Saxon stalks a herd of giants, looking for a trophy bull.

Outdoor writers Grits Gresham and Joe Brooks, one of America's foremost fly fishermen, travel to the Quatna River near Bella Coola, British Columbia where they fish for the fall run of coho salmon, coming to spawn.

Sunken treasure attracts Cousteau, crew

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The story of famed underwater explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau's search for a wreck believed to be La Nuestra de la Concepcion, command ship of the 1641 New World Armada of Spain, will be told in "Sunken Treasure," the sixth program in ABC-TV's "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau," series in color, to be presented Tuesday, March 4 at 7:30 p.m.

The announcement was made by Thomas H. Wolf, Vice President and Director of Television Documentaries for ABC News.

Intrigued with the credibility of research done by his old friend Remy de Haenen, and fired by his enthusiasm, Capt. Cousteau and the crew of the Calypso agreed to explore the wreck site for one week before proceeding to their next scheduled destination.

The divers and crew worked night and day for two months in their excavations on the Caribbean reef, now knows as Silver Banks because of the cargo of more than $2,000,000 in silver and gold believed to have been carried by La Nuestra Senora.

With Remy as lookout and pilot and using his charts and aerial photographs of the Silver Banks, Capt. Cousteau safely negotiated Calypso through the treacherous wreck-strewn waters to a mooring site within a few hundred yards of where Remy believed La Nuestra to be located.

A lone diver discovered an ancient ship's cannon similar to the armament used to defend the galleons of the Spanish Treasure Armadas and Capt. Cousteau and Remy immediately dived to scout the area themselves. They found more evidence to indicate they had found the remains of the old sailing ship.

Three pros set for Saturday PGA

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, and Frank Beard clash in the first semi-final round of "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf" international tournament color-cast over the NBC Television Network today at 5 p.m.

The three stars, all winners of elimination matches will compete on the challenging PGA National Golf Club at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. Jimmy Demaret is the commentator and Gene Sarazen, the host of Shell's $164,000 tourney.

Song team

Host Jack Jones and special guest star Nancy Sinatra collaborate on a medley of songs during NBC Television special, "The Highlights of the Ice Capades of 1969," Sunday at 9 p.m.

Wallace interviews 'Danny The Red'

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the "Danny the Red" who led the student revolution in Paris that almost toppled the de Gaulle government in May 1968, will be interviewed by Correspondent Mike Wallace as a feature of "60 MINUTES," CBS News' television magazine, Tuesday, Feb. 18 at 10 in color on CBS Television.

The 23-year-old student leader, in his first extensive television interview with an American newsman, tells why he is a revolutionary and describes the kind of society, with government stripped of political power, he envisions for the future.

In the lively, often humorous, give-and-take session, "Danny the Red" talks about his desire for a collective society based on everything being shared, with sexual freedom as the panacea.

He also explains the differences between his vision of a collective society and communism and the conflict that exists between the two, and talks about such leaders as President Richard M. Nixon, Lyndon B. Johnson, Hubert H. Humphrey, John and Robert Kennedy, and Martin Luther King Jr.

Cohn-Bendit, a German citizen who is a persona non grata in France, Great Britain, and the Soviet Union, is interviewed in his studio apartment in Frankfurt, Germany. "Studio" is the word to describe the apartment, which is so small that, for the cameras to film the interview, Wallace had to sit in the kitchenette while Cohn-Bendit sat nearby in the living room.

Wallace shares on-the-air editor duties on "60 MINUTES" with Correspondent Harry Reasoner.

As in all "60 MINUTES" broadcasts, program content is subject to change in the light of breaking news stories.

On a dangerous mission

Marine Sgt. Steve Corey (Hugh O'Brian) leads a squad of Marine commandoes on an important mission through Japanese-held territory in the World War II drama, "Ambush Bay," to be colorcast on NBC Television's "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" at 9 p.m.

Jimmy Durante pens pact for two spots

Jimmy Durante and Don Knotts team up as hosts of "Durante and Knotts Do Their Thing...Also," and are joined by guest stars Jane Powell and the Baja Marimba Band on the NBC Television Network's "Kraft Music Hall," Wednesday, Feb. 26, at 9 p.m.

Jimmy and Don open the program singing "Dear World." The Baja Marimba Band then plays "Flying High." Don then stars in a skit titled "The Medical Convention" in which he speaks to a large crowd of doctors.

Miss Powell sings "Cycles," and joins Don and Jimmy in a skit which pokes fun at a TV game show in which a girl picks a date from a panel of hidden men. Jane then sings as Jimmy plays "Real Piano Player." Don follows with his sketch of a TV weatherman who has to go on the air and give a report — although he has been unable to reach the weather bureau.

The show closes with Jimmy, as a bullfight impresario who needs inspirational Mexican music to encourage his bullfighter — and finds it when the Baja Marimba Band plays "Inka Dinka Doo."

Durante will also appears as himself in a cameo role in "Every In-law Wants to Get into the Act," on NBC Television Network's colorcast of "The Mothers-in-Law" Sunday, March 2 at 8:30 p.m.

Lord to show oil paintings

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Jack Lord, who stars in "Hawaii Five-O" on the CBS Television Network, will display another facet of his talents in "The Linkletter Show" Friday, Feb. 21 (4:00-4:30 p.m. EST) in color on the CBS Television Network when he exhibits some of his oil paintings. Lord is an accomplished professional artist whose work has been purchased by New York's famous Metropolitan Museum of Art and other important collections.

Monkees to star in TV color special

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "Thirty-three and one-third Revolutions per Monkee," a special starring The Monkees, will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Monday, April 14, at 8 p.m.; preempting "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In."

The quartet — Micky Dolenz, Davy Jones, Mike Nesmith and Peter Tork — who once starred in their own NBC-TV series describes their special as a "musical happening." They will be joined by a flock of popular performers.

Performing with The Monkees will be guests Julie Driscoll, Brian Auger and the Trinity, Jerry Lee Lewis, Fats Domino, Little Richard, the Clara Ward Singers, the Buddy Miles Express, Paul Arnold and the Moon Express, and the Wee Three.

It is the first special to star The Monkees since their half-hour series was on NBC-TV during the 1966-67 and 1967-68 seasons. The boys have been busy recording, making concert appearances, performing as guest stars on other TV specials, and starring in their first motion picture, "Head," which was recently released.

Good place to raise children; but panel seeks improvements

EAST STROUDSBURG — Basically Monroe County is a good place to bring up children, and the great majority turn out to be decent contributing citizens.

This is how a panel representing the court, police and schools, softened its indictments of the community at the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church this week.

East Stroudsburg's Assistant Police Chief Charles McDonald started the discussion by emphasizing that this is one of the best places to bring up children.

Viewing the wild rampages of young people in the cities, he described the curfew in some cities necessary for survival. He quoted alarming statistics on the crime rate outstripping population growth in the past ten years assembled by the FBI and released at a recent seminar he had attended.

Police: stop him

"Everybody was discussing what to do about the youthfu criminal. I can see only one answer: stop him!", he said.

Young people have too much freedom, he charged. Parents, busy with trying to keep up with the Joneses, allow their children to run wild. Attempting to talk to the parents of boys in trouble, he has found them uncooperative and apparently unconcerned.

McDonald gave a list of suggestions on how to raise a delinquent in which some of the salient points were: make him think that the world owes him a living; laugh at his bad words; take his part against the teacher and all authority.

Mrs. Pauline Peterson, superintendent of the East Stroudsburg Schools, agreed that the young people were the products of the home and environment.

"The majority of our parents are good citizens," she said, "but there is a generation gap and they don't understand that today's children have known strife, war and tensions all their lives. This does affect them."

The school: tensions

Complicating world tension is the fact that parents and children no longer share their homes or social lives together, she said, and charged that parents give their children too much that they should have to earn, let them slip into drugs and dope because they have never taught them "Thou shalt not."

"Parents try to cover up for their children," she said, "instead of making them face the fact that they have done wrong. They fail to teach them reliance and self-control."

The communications media also pose real problems since in most homes there is no control of television or magazines they read.

"What we need is home censorship," she said. She also decried too early dating and too late hours and the example of adult misbehavior in the home.

The American school is hampered by the fact that parents won't let the school make the necessary changes for the individual instruction necessary to make each child feel secure and important.

"There is too much emphasis on the college-bound child. No child should be made to feel stupid or ignored. The slowest should have success and the bright must be challenged," she said.

Judge Arlington W. Williams struck an optimistic note.

The court: good parents

"The greatest deterrent to delinquent youth are responsible parents," he said. "And the vast majority are raising intelligent and idealistic citizens."

"The problems of youth are not separate from the problems of society in general, and it is important that we revitalize the structure of society.

"The great majority of crimes committed by young people are the result of group action," he said, and urged strong adult support of character-building youth organizations in the church and in the community.

"Obedience to the law," Judge Williams said, "cannot be taught by parents who refuse to say 'no' when they ought to, who leave their children to depend on their own resources and to make decisions they are too immature to contend with.

"Young people are rebellious against authority because they have never known parent authority and are unequipped to accept it. Parents have abdicated their responsibility, sacrificing it to their own pleasures.

"Children today have grown up in an entirely different world than our own," Judge Williams said. "They are the 'now generation' trying to cram all their aspirations into a life they feel may be blown to bits."

"They are bewildered without the sure foundations we used to have. No strong voice is telling them that there are basic standards and basic truths in life.

"In our drug-oriented society where parents take pills to sleep and to calm their nerves or wake them up, it's no wonder young people have turned to drugs to build a world of fantasy without the moral stamina to face realities," he charged.

Church people came in for their share of blame from Judge Williams, who said:

"Many thoughtful young people will quarrel with us, not over Christian truths, but over the effectiveness of Christianity to help in solving modern problems. We fail them utterly if religion is on our tongues but absent in our hearts.

"They are intelligent and bright. They will listen to reason if we can show the effectiveness of our religion in our lives and take it 'where the action is'," he concluded.

The panel was moderated by Rev. Harold C. Eaton who brought the problem home by pointing to the difficulty in securing teachers for junior high classes or Scoutmasters for Scout troops.

Hospital Auxiliary buys equipment, adds fund

STROUDSBURG — Recent developments in heart and organ transplants were discussed by James Fahl at the February meeting of the Auxiliary of the General Hospital of Monroe County at the Stroud Community House.

They had plenty of questions following his talk, including questions about the equipment a hospital must have before performing such operations.

Hospital equipment was on the meeting's agenda when members approved the purchase of four new pieces of equipment for the hospital: a Collins respirometer; teaching tapes for the coronary care unit; a rotating tournaquet machine; and a volume regulated respirator.

The Auxiliary also paid $3,666 on their hospital expansion pledge, bringing the total amount paid to date to $26,666.

Mrs. Maxwell Cohen presided at the meeting when reports were given by committees:

The Women's Exchange needs Spring clothing and other saleable items and if the severe weather continues can also use more warm clothing.

Charity Ball proceeds

Mrs. Edward Driebe, chairman of the Charity Ball, announced the sum of $3,500 had been cleared from the benefit held at Mount Airy Lodge.

March 9 to 17 was announced as hospital volunteer appreciation week. The Pink Ladies of the hospital will be honored at a tea at the Stroud Community House on March 13 at 1 p.m. when pins will be presented.

A bake sale will be held at the Women's Exchange on Friday, March 14.

Mrs. Rosemary Oloffson and Mrs. William Hopkins are co-chairmen of the Spring luncheon, fashion show and card party, to be held Monday, May 26, in the dining room at East Stroudsburg State College. Frances Burrows will provide the fashions and geraniums will be sold on order.

The Pennsylvania Hospital Auxiliaries Assn. will hold its Spring conference and seminar April 9 and 10 at the Hotel Hershey. The Mid-Atlantic Assembly will be held May 20-22 at Convention Hall, Atlantic City.

More volunteers are needed at the hospital and women willing to serve were asked to call Mrs. Mary Hoke, chairman of volunteer services, at the hospital.

The meeting was preceded by dessert served at a table centered by a bust of Abraham Lincoln surrounded by American flags and carnations. Mrs. Jules Steinberg and Miss Helen Stacey poured. Hostesses were Mrs. James Fahl, Mrs. Henry Zimmer and Mrs. Alan Gould.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Interestingly enough, many of the parents, particularly the fathers, who joined the discussion following the panel on "Problems of Youth", were inclined to take a harder line than the panelists, so evidently the "parents who were afraid to say 'no' " who were blamed for many of the problems of young people weren't there.

As a matter of fact, for a lot of the audience, the advise to parents came a little late. Most of us had already made our mistakes despite the fact that our grown children turned out surprisingly well and are now struggling with the parent bit on their own.

There seems to be a pendulum sort of effect in child rearing. Children whose parents were overly strict are apt to be more permissive with their children. Children who remember the situations they got into because of too little supervision are apt to hold a tighter reign.

Actually, I don't think what parents do makes nearly as much difference as why they do it. Kids know whether parents let them watch television just to get them out of their hair or because the program is something they'll enjoy or learn from.

They know whether parents spank them because the parents are mad at the world or because children have to learn there are some things they can't do without unpleasant results.

They can also understand that parents can be unreasonable, cranky, and hard to live with at times. The hardest thing to accept would be the fact that some parents just don't care.

But then have you ever met a grandmother yet who didn't consider herself the ultimate authority on childrearing?

Wall Street trend matches New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York was anything but Fun City this week, and Wall Street was no exception as stocks slipped lower in active trading.

The week began a day late for investors because a 15-inch snowstorm—the worst to batter the city in eight years—virtually paralyzed all transportation, forcing cancellation of Monday's trading session.

When dealings resumed on Tuesday, which turned out to be the week's only bright spot, the opening was pushed back by one hour to 11 a.m. EST to allow traders extra time to get to work. The population still was digging out at the weekend.

Although economic news remained mostly favorable, investors were jolted by Grim developments on the international scene. Round four of the Vietnam peace conference ended in another deadlock, with the Viet Cong warning that the war would not end until the complete withdrawal of United States and other allied forces.

Fears that the forthcoming Presidential elections in West Berlin would touch off another East-West crisis added further to the woes of investors, as did the sound of war drums in the Middle East.

Moscow's newspapers proclaimed that the March 5 West Berlin meeting of West Germany's electoral college is illegal, intolerable and endangering peace.

Domestic news, meanwhile, had a more cheery ring, including word from economist Walter Heller that tight money would have little impact on the high rate of automobile sales. Also, steel production last week its biggest jump since mid-July 1968, and retail sales rose 2 per cent in January over the previous month, the Commerce Department reported.

Other constructive items were prospects of another hike in trucking rates, the third in less than two years; bright corporate financial developments with several leading corporations reporting increased earnings planning stock splits and boosting dividend rates; and the government's belief that the current employment situation does not indicate a slow-down in the boom-level economy.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.30 to 134.80. Of 1,698 issues crossing the tape 849 declined, 704 advanced. There were 69 new 1968 - 69 highs set, 36 new lows.

The New York Stock Exchange index of the average common share price was unchanged at its low for the week of $58.64 after touching a high of $58.76.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index gained 0.08 to 103.61; Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials rose 4.10 to 951.95; DJ rails and utilities eased.

Turnover slid to 47,336,244 shares for the four days, compared to 64,165,150 during the five-day period a week before. It was up from 41,031,960 shares which changed hands at a like period a year ago.

Twentieth Century-Fox led *the list of 20 most active is*sues, rising 3⅞ to 39⅜ on 1,010,800 shares. Trans Lux has purchased an undisclosed amount of stock in Fox, generally considered a prime takeover candidate.

Occidental was second on the actives list, inching up ⅛ to 49⅛ on 815,900 shares. The oil firm is awaiting the go ahead from the government to construct a refinery in Maine for processing foreign oil. Cities Service, another active oil, rose 2⅝. Others advancing a point or better were Jersey Standard, Texaco and Sinclair. Superior fell 6, and Atlantic Richfield 2½.

INA Corp., the insurance holding firm, held third place on the active list, losing 3¾ to 47⅞ on 611,600 shares. Levin-Townsend abandoned its plans for a tender offer for INA.

Scientific Data enjoyed the biggest jump among the actives, spurting 13½. Xerox, off ¼, tentatively agreed to acquire the firm. Xerox, meanwhile, also planned a 3-for-1 stock split of its stock and a dividend boost.

Trade brisk as stocks drop Friday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market trudged lower Friday in brisk trading.

Worsening international deveopment and normal, preweekend evening - up pressure more than offset constructive economic news, including the continued flow of increased earnings reports, along with plans for stock splits and higher dividend rates by several leading corporations.

In addition, business inventories were at a high rate in December, although somewhat below the previous month, according to the Commerce Department's latest report.

Among the disheartening in*ternational* news were threats of another East-West confrontation over the forthcoming election in West Berlin; vanishing hope of an early breakthrough at the Vietnam peace conference in Paris, and fears of renewed warfare in the Middle East.

Several electronics issues took a sharp pounding while motors were narrowly mixed. The automobile industry reported increased sales for the first third of this month, but production schedules were cut during the current week.

Tobacco issues generally rolled forward despite a drop in cigaret use in 1968, the first such decline for a calendar year since 1960.

The UPI stock market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.12 per cent. Of the 1,596 issues crossing the tape, 750 declined and 586 advanced. There were 16 new highs and 12 new lows.

The New York Stock Exchange index mirrored a loss of six cents in the average common share price.

Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials dipped 0.75 to 951.95. DJ rails and utilities also softened.

'Nice guy' retires from Depot at 62

Millard Quarles

TOBYHANNA — Millard Quarles of Stroudsburg, R.D. 1, termed "a real nice guy" by his co-workers, retired at Tobyhanna Army Depot this week at age 62.

He had been employed at the depot since 1951 as a packaging and preservation quality control specialist, transferring from the Baltimore Signal Depot, where he began his government service in 1941.

At a party in his honor at the Non-Commissioned Officers' Club, he was showered with gifts and high praise from his supervisors.

"I never expected anything like it," Quarles said. "I found it difficult to retain my composure."

Principal speaker was Depot Commander Col. Paul R. Poulin, who presented Quarles with a Certificate of Appreciation and a retirement plaque. Bernard Varvel of Canadensis, Quarles' supervisor, was master of ceremonies.

Referring to his long association with Quarles, Varvel said, "He's a fine employe and a real nice guy.

"I've always been interested in doing my best and going out of my way to held others," Quarles replied.

He doesn't plan to "just sit around" during his retirement. "I enjoy carpentry and will follow that line on a partime basis," he said.

Quartes and his wife of 34 years, the former Tessie Harris, will continue living in Stroudsburg. "It's the most beautiful country ever created," Quarles declared.

Besides carpentry, he intends to remain active in Gideon Lodge No. 145, Free and Accepted Masons, Stroudsburg, where he is past master.

Rotary hears plant supervisor

Pollution problems aired

EAST STROUDSBURG — The problems of pollution and solid waste disposal were discussed by James Balson, a supervisor at the local International Boiler Works Ovitron Plant, at the Stroudsburg Rotary Club's meeting held Friday at Holiday Inn.

Each of us contributes to the problem of solid waste disposal, stated Balson. Every 60 seconds 251 tons of trash is produced in the United States. This amounts to four to five pounds per person per day, he said.

The common methods of disposal have been dumping, land fills, compression or compaction, mechanical composting, barging out to sea, and incineration. In the past, industrial plants and incinerators have contributed to the air pollution problem when they were operating at 60 to 80 per cent efficiency.

Most plants are now working toward a 90-95 per cent efficiency, according to Balson, and in the future their goal will be 96 to 99 per cent efficiency. Balson was introduced by Clifford Petersen, program chairman.

James Johnson was introduced as a new member to the club by John Withrow. Johnson's Rotary classification is Soil Conservation.

Safety talk scheduled

TANNERSVILLE — A member of the Pennsylvania State Police, Troop N, Hazleton will speak before 4-H members of the Tannersville Community Club on Saturday, Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Pocono Township firehouse.

Trooper Walter A. Balliet, safety education officer for the Hazleton area will discuss highway safety.

Advancements made

300 attend Scouts banquet

TANNERSVILLE — More than 300 Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, parents, leaders and guests attended the Blue-Gold Scout Banquet of Troop and Pack 85 in Tannersville recently to honor, recognize and advance scouts and leaders.

A demonstration of precision bow and arrow shooting was given by James Stametz, the 1966 State Archery Champion with Den Leader Roberta Rasely shooting a game of tic-tac-toe with the champion.

A skit was performed by Den Two commemorating the 59th year of scouting and the 39th year of cub scouting in America.

In the Court of Honor, the following advancements were made:

FLAMELESS
International
THERMO-ELECTRIC HOT WATER BASEBOARD HEATER

For Heating Entire Homes, Apartments, Schools, Motels and Other Buildings—an INTERNATIONAL HEATER in Each Room Takes the Place of Old-Fashioned, Expensive-to-Install, Heat-Wasting Central Heating Systems

(For Single Room Heating—Just Plug in a Portable Model)

For years heating engineers have known hot water heat is superior. Hot water heat is soft, gentle. And—according to a world recognized university authority—provides the most uniform, floor-to-ceiling warmth of any heating tested. But for years properly-installed hot water heat has been a luxury few could afford. For it required the expensive installation and maintenance of a central boiler, plumbing system, special valves, controls, etc.

Now, however, you can have the advantages of hot water heat—at much lower cost than any type of oil, gas, or electric central heating system.

This is made possible by a simple, low-cost, revolutionary, electric hot water heating invention — the INTERNATIONAL THERMO-ELECTRIC HOT WATER BASEBOARD HEATER, described in detail at the right. It requires no furnace, boiler, pipes, ducts, flues, chimney, or oil or gas storage tank. Has no motor, blower, pump or other moving parts to get out of order. And makes no noise (is absolutely silent).

INTERNATIONAL Thermo-Electric Hot Water Baseboard Heaters take the place of expensive, heat-wasting, space-taking, central heating systems of all types. Instead of installing a central furnace and pipes or air ducts — individual INTERNATIONAL Heaters, with thermostat, are installed in each room.

YOU GET THESE ADVANTAGES:

• MORE COMFORTABLE HEAT! — Heat is directed to produce a soft, gentle warmth throughout the entire room — preventing cold floors and drafts. There's very little difference between floor and ceiling temperatures. And, as the temperature of the water in the INTERNATIONAL changes according to outside weather conditions — it maintains and gives off just the right amount of heat for comfort at all times. Never too little. Never too much.

• SAVE ON INSTALLATION COST! — Any competent electrician can install an INTERNATIONAL system in a home in a day or two — usually at substantially-lower cost than a properly-installed central heating system.

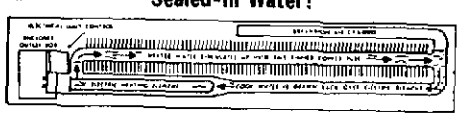
• AMAZINGLY-ECONOMICAL TO USE! — As the INTERNATIONAL has no furnace, pipes or ducts — no heat escapes out the chimney or during transmission to rooms, as with central heating systems which can waste as much as 40% to 50% of their heat this way. And, as the thermostat turns off the current when the water reaches proper heating temperature — there's no wasteful use of current as with other heating methods.

• CLEAN, HEALTHFUL, SAFE HEAT! — The INTERNATIONAL can't overheat and burn anything. So no lint and dust particles in the air are burned into carbon cinders. This prevents wall smudging. Keeps furniture and furnishings cleaner. And there are no carbon particles to irritate nose and throat. Furthermore, it's fireproof. Safe for children. And it's the only electric heater which you can place drapes and furniture against with absolute safety.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR.

HOT WATER ELECTRIC HEAT DIV.,
INTERNATIONAL OIL BURNER CO.
3800 Park Ave., St. Louis, Mo. 63110

Operates By a Revolutionary Principle . . . Electrically-Heated, Permanently-Sealed-in Water!



The innerworks of the INTERNATIONAL is a copper tube inside of which a water and anti-freeze solution, which never needs refilling, and an electric heating element are permanently, hermetically sealed. Operation is controlled entirely by a thermostat — which maintains the solution at precisely the temperature needed to provide perfectly-balanced heating comfort at all times.

There are no heating surfaces of 450° to 800°F. every time the thermostat turns on the current — as with ordinary heating methods which burn and carbonize lint particles in the air, besides causing a lot of heat to rise to the ceiling where so much of it is wasted. Nor is there a chilling to room temperature when the thermostat turns off the current, causing drafty floors and running up the heating bill — as with other heating methods. The water continues to release warmth — an electricity-saving feature.

Each INTERNATIONAL Heater contains an Electric Limit Control and Air Expansion Chamber to provide for absolute safety. The anti-freeze protects to 50°F. below zero.

Motel facility to be built in W. Main St. area in June

STROUDSBURG — A franchised 130-room Sheraton motel facility will be constructed this June on a six-acre site near Interstate Rt. 80 and West Main St., it was revealed Friday.

Arthur Dugan of Consolidated Motor Inns, State College, told The Pocono Record Friday he has been negotiating a franchise license and "I've already optioned the property."

Specifically, the motel will be located between the Houdaille Sand and Gravel Co. and the W. Main Street Rt. 80 entrance ramp.

Details not complete

Dugan, who was not prepared to release full details regarding the motel facility, said the structure will be a new innovation in motel design.

Dugan's firm, which constructed the Holiday Inn in East Stroudsburg, is acquiring the land from Shell Oil Co.

The motel, originally planned for 220 units, is estimated to cost in excess of one million dollars. It will contain an indoor and outdoor swimming pool. Earlier plans also called for a sauna bath.

Al Banks, public relations executive for the Sheraton Hotels, Inc. said from his Boston office Friday that final papers for the franchise license have not yet been signed.

Dugan added, however, that he already has forwarded funds to Sheraton for the franchise.

Dugan currently is operating a Sheraton facility in State College and a second facility owned by him is due to open next Fall in Williamsport.

Construction of the Sheraton facility was first revealed last summer.

The Shell Oil Co., however, then announced it did not have any plans to sell the property and that it would construct a service station on the site.

Sheraton Hotels reported last August that a feasibility survey was being conducted by an accounting firm, but later said the report was in a dormant state.

Dugan said although the motel units were decreased from 220 to 136, he hoped additional units would be constructed some time after the motel is complete and in operation.

Building begins on Metzgar Fields

EASTON — Construction of Lafayette College's new Varsity House at the Marshall R. Metzgar Fields in Forks Township is scheduled to begin in approximately one month.

Collins & Maxwell of Easton will be the general contractor for the service fieldhouse.

The fields were named in honor of a Stroudsburg physician who graduated from Lafayette and also served as a trustee for many years.

The Varsity House will be built at a total cost of $355,000, according to Donald U. Noblett, director of physical planning and operations at Lafayette.

The new facility, designed by Richard Hawley Cutting & Associates of Cleveland, should be completed by September.

Locker facilities

The building will include locker and dressing room facilities, a training room an equipment storage area, coaches' conference room, coaches' locker room, officials' locker room, class room for team meetings, public restrooms and a lobby.

The Varsity House project is the second step in a comprehensive athletic and physical education building program. The initial step was the construction of playing and practice fields for six intercollegiate sports at the site three miles north of the Lafayette campus on Route 115.

Dr. Marshall R. Metzgar

Metzgar Fields will be used for the first time later this year. The facilities include two baseball diamonds, three fields for soccer and lacrosse, two football practice fields, and an all-weather Tartan track.

The next phase of the program will be the construction of an indoor athletic and physical education complex on the campus. This will include a fieldhouse, gymnasium, natatorium and related facilities.

Journalism class opens on Tuesday

STROUDSBURG — The controversial issue concerning the elimination of the Stroudsburg High School journalism class is settled.

James W. Hantjis, high school principal, Friday afternoon announced the creation of a new course which will teach students journalistic topics and creative writing. The course will be taught by Miss Anna Stem, English Department chairman and will begin Tuesday.

(See editorial on page four)

Creation of the new class will allow the 17 former journalism class students to receive an additional one-half academic credit.

The former journalism class, taught by Edward Burnett, was abruptly cancelled for what was termed too much dissention among students.

The original journalism class, an elective subject which provided one full credit, was being taught in conjunction with publishing the school newspaper, "The Mountaineer."

Students in the journalism class and "The Mountaineer" staff divided into two factions when Stephen Szilagyi was demoted from "The Mountaineer" editorship. Szilagyi subsequently left the staff.

Szilagyi, a 16-year-old junior from Stroudsburg R.D. 1, was charged with conflict of interest by Burnett when he began publishing an underground newspaper, "The Last Word."

$700,000 suit filed over death

SCRANTON — Buck Hill Falls Inn has been named among defendants in a $700,000 lawsuit in Federal Court Scranton.

The suit stems from the death of Kenneth J. Pocius, 15, Merchantville, N.J., who died as a result of a sledding accident on the property of the resort on Feb. 12, 1968.

The complaint was filed by Martin J. Pocius, father of the dead boy.

Additional defendants

Other defendants named were Clifford R. Gillam, C. Marshall Reese, Alex L. and Charles Bensinger, John C. Horzman and John C. Hossman.

At the time of his death, the boy was on a YMCA outing with 157 other boys from Camden County.

Witnesses said the boy was sledding on fairway number two of the Blue Course at the inn.

According to accounts, Kenneth fell or was thrown from the sled on which he was riding, and slid on some ice into a tree three feet in diameter.

It was the only tree on that particular fairway.

His body was found 10 feet from the tree.

Daniel G. Warner, chief deputy Monroe County coroner and State Police from Mount Pocono investigated the death.

Community club maps heart drive

STROUDSBURG — Heart Fund volunteers of the Stroud Community Woman's Club reported on the status of the Stroudsburg door-to-door fund drive at a meeting of the club in the YMCA.

Reports were given by Mrs. Kenneth Kruse, chairman and the following captains: First Ward, Mrs. Kruse; Second Ward, Mrs. Edward Mesko; Third Ward, Mrs. Ronald Saxton; Fourth Ward, Mrs. Bernard Helman; Fifth Ward, Mrs. Anthony Quaresimo.

Visits to area

The volunteers will be visiting their areas to distribute heart-saving information and to solicit for Heart Fund contributions.

Mrs. Ellen Leeds, field representative of the Monroe Chapter, Keystone Heart Assn., reminded persons that heart and blood vessel diseases are also a local problem and are responsible for 59 per cent of all deaths.

Mrs. Ruth Sibley, standing, program chairman for Stroud Community Woman's Club's recent meeting on the Heart Fund Drive, reviews some important aspects of the educational program of the Heart Assn. with Mrs. Betty Helman, left, publicity chairman and Mrs. Thelma Mesko, president of the club. Variety marks 12 sentences by Monroe County's court

STROUDSBURG — A former East Stroudsburg resident was sentenced Friday in the Monroe County Court to serve two to four years in a state prison after being convicted of a charge of sodomy.

Sentence was imposed on John J. McLaughlin, Sr., 67, by Monroe County Judge Arlington W. Williams, as one of 12 sentences handed down.

(Drug series on page four)

Judge Williams suspended the sentence on a second charge, corrupting the morals of a minor, against McLaughlin.

McLaughlin was found guilty of both charges by a Monroe County jury on Dec. 10, 1968. When they returned the verdict, the jurors recommended to the court that McLaughlin undergo psychiatric examination.

In keeping with the recommendation, Judge Williams ordered McLaughlin to undergo a 60-day examination at Allentown State Hospital. At that time he deferred sentence until the report could be obtained from the hospital.

McLaughlin was returned from the hospital Friday to hear sentence imposed.

Judge Williams told McLaughlin's attorney, Jerome P. Cheslock, that the report revealed that there was nothing wrong mentally with McLaughlin.

He also said that McLaughlin has had a severe alcoholic problem since he was 59, but that he refuses to acknowledge the fact that he has the problem, and shows no desire to be cured from the problem.

He added that McLaughlin had been in the Allentown State Hospital three times for his alcoholism.

To McLaughlin, Judge Williams said, "You have committed a grave offense in the eyes of this court. The court in all good conscience cannot return such an individual to the community."

Judge Williams also imposed state prison sentences on two other defendants Friday.

Curtis Miller, 19, Monroe County Jail, was sentenced for an indefinite period, with a minimum of one and one-half years and a maximum of three years, to state prison after pleading guilty to receiving stolen goods.

George M. Sterba, a West Hazleton resident currently confined in the Monroe County Jail, was also sentenced to a state prison term of one to three years.

Miller and Sterba have both had frequent contact with the law. Sterba has committed a criminal offense every year since 1961. Miller has repeatedly violated probation since 1966.

Two men were sentenced by Judge Williams to undergo psychiatric examinations at Allentown State Hospital after pleading guilty to possession of narcotic drugs.

Sentence was deferred on Dennis Marks, 220 Main St., Stroudsburg, pending the report of the examining doctors at Allentown. Marks pleaded guilty to the charge on Jan. 10.

Also sent to Allentown for a 60-day examination was John F. O'Neill, presently confined in the Monroe County Jail. O'Neill entered his guilty plea on Jan. 15.

Two men were also sentenced to the Monroe County Jail Friday.

Joseph Rehm, Monroe County Jail, was sentenced to serve six months in the county institution for contempt of court on a support matter.

James E. Koerner, 19, Stroudsburg R.D. 5, was sentenced to three months in the Monroe County Jail after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated and failure to stop at the scene of an accident.

Intoxication charges

Three persons received fines after entering pleas of guilty to driving while intoxicated.

Daniel S. Reimer, 3203 Shakespeare Road, Bethlehem, was fined $500 plus costs and was placed on probation for one year. Steven G. Miller, 19, Stroudsburg R.D. 2, was fined $300 plus costs and also was placed on probation for one year.

Also sentenced for drunken driving was William J. Palmer. He was fined $300 plus costs and was placed on probation for one year.

James H. Kishpaugh, 129 N. Second St., Stroudsburg, was fined $100 after pleading guilty to a charge of obstructing a police officer in the performance of his duty.

Barry Parsons, 20 Beers St., Stroudsburg, was fined $100 plus costs on a charge of driving without a license.

State seeks burning ordinances

STROUDSBURG — The State Health Department Friday said it will seek anti-burning legislation in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg Boroughs and Stroud Township.

James LaCoe, district Health Department sanitarian, said Friday afternoon the department is attempting to encourage municipalities to discontinue burning refuse.

LaCoe said the Health Department is primerly interested in seeking local ordinances which would prohibit burning of paper, garbage and general household refuse.

LaCoe said the adoption of such ordinances would eliminate smog and pollution problems in addition to cutting down on a potential problem of rodents.

"Whenever you have exposed refuse, you have the potential problem of rodents," LaCoe said.

The district Health Department has called a meeting of representatives of the three municipalities to encourage them to adopt a uniform anti-burning ordinance.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Stroudsburg Borough hall.

LaCoe said the department will not seek a ban on burning leaves.

Stroud Township Secretary Harold Albert said "I doubt if it will be practical at this time."

East Stroudsburg Mayor Thomas Kistler said, "Personally, I don't think it's a serious problem in our area." He added, however, that in the future there may be a need for such an ordinance.

Stroudsburg Mayor Joseph Small is on vacation and could not be contacted.

Municipalities currently have ordinances which restrict burning to certain hours.

E. Rowden, Mt. Bethel, dies at 77

NESHANIC, N.J. — Mrs. Estelle R. Rowden, 77, formerly of Middle Village, Mount Bethel, died Thursday in Foothills Acres Nursing Home, Neshanic, N.J., where she had been a guest.

Born in Upper Mount Bethel Township, she was a daughter of the late Edwin and Johanna Lerch Jacoby.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Sadie Eichorn of Nazareth R.D., and two nephews.

Services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the Reed Funeral Home, Johnsonville, with Rev. Milton Hardenstein officiating.

Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery, Portland.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Sunday after 7 p.m.

Form deadline

STROUDSBURG — Personal property tax forms must be filed no later than today, Feb. 15. Forms may be obtained at the office of the Monroe County Commissioners in the county courthouse.

Yoga dinner to feature Hindu food

TANNERSVILLE — A Yoga demonstration and dancing of India will highlight a Sivanada yoga dinner at 6:30 p.m. today in the Tannersville Fire House.

Amrit Desai of Philadelphia founder and director of the Yoga Society of Pennsylvania will be featured speaker. He will demonstrate the Yoga and dancing of India.

The Yoga dinner is sponsored by Sivanada Yoga-Camp-Retreat-Poconos at Henryville R.D. 1, Kaylee Rosenberg is the director.

Hindu food will be served at the dinner.

'Disaster' in April in Monroe County

EAST STROUDSBURG—There will be a disaster in Monroe County. It will occur in late April in one of the county's larger resorts.

One hundred persons will be injured in the disaster. But there won't be any blood nor any screams, because it will be a simulated disaster.

Dr. Joel Samuelson recently told department heads at the General Hospital of Monroe County about the simulated disaster which will test the hospital's facilities, communications and transportation.

Degrees of injuries

Dr. Samuelson said the resort will be set up to resemble a disaster area and that 100 volunteers will be made up to represent varied degrees of injury.

When the simulated disaster occurs, the injured will be transported by ambulance, rescue squad trucks and the like to the hospital where the hospital's disaster plan will already be in action.

Dr. Samuelson drew the following picture of what it will be like during the disaster when 100 injured persons have to be cared for at the same time.

Telephone switchboard personnel swing into action by notifying all department heads of the crisis. Doctors are alerted to stand by to take care of all emergencies. Nurses are ready for assistance and will see that ample quantities of supplies are easily available.

Maintenance department will be alerted to any emergency that might arise. Security police will admit only authorized persons. Public relations will assist members of the news media and the volunteers consoling the families of the injured.

Mount Bethel resident dies at 85

EAST STROUDSBURG — George E. Jourdain, 85, of Mount Bethel, died Friday morning in the General Hospital of Monroe County where he had been a patient.

Born in Paris, France, he was a son of the late Eli and Maria Colts Jourdain.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Blanche Galausiau Jourdain, at home; a son Henry of Long Island, N.Y.; two grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Blanche Chaison, Cherry Valley.

Services will be held Monday at 11 a.m. in the Reed Funeral Home, Johnsonville, with Rev. Charles Cummings officiating.

Cremation will follow the service.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Monday from 10 a.m. to time of service.

East Stroudsburg resident fined

STROUDSBURG — Anthony McKeegen of East Stroudsburg, Friday was released after paying $19 in fine and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct before Stroud Township Justice of the Peace Mrs. Ruth Miller.

The charge was made by Stroud Township Police.

Two-count suit filed for $4,000

STROUDSBURG — A two-count suit was filed Friday with the Monroe County Court asking in excess of $4,000 against the Pocono Record, Inc., 511 Lenox St., Stroudsburg.

Filing the action against the Record was Hattie E. and Jesse H. Lynch, Stroudsburg R.D. 1.

Mrs. Lynch is asking for a judgement in excess of $2,000 for injuries which she claims to have sustained on June 28, 1968, in the Record offices.

She alleges that she slipped because of excessive accumulations of oil, wax and water on the floor of the office and charges the Record with negligence.

The complaint claims that she was jarred, shaken, suffered severe and excruciating pain and agony, sustained multiple contusion, depression, tendonitis of the left shoulder, injured her left shoulder, incurred lumbo sacral strain, injured her left elbow, and that the injuries may be permanent.

Also, the complaint continues, she incurred a severe shock to her nervous system, great physical pain and anguish, all of which may continue for an indefinite time in the future.

Mrs. Lynch further claims that she incurred severe permanent damage by reason of a traumatic periflibercitis of the left elbow with restriction of the range of motion.

Her husband, Jesse, is asking in excess of $2,000 for medical expenses already incurred and expenses which occur in the future.

Lynch is also asking for compensation for being compelled to suffer the loss and damages and services of his wife permanently because of comfort and solace usually provided by a wife in good health and unimpaired vigor.

ESSC plans faculty senate

EAST STROUDSBURG — A faculty senate is expected to be in operation at East Stroudsburg State College by September.

The announcement was made by ESSC President Dr. Frank D. Sills and Charles Curran, president of the ESSC Faculty Assn.

An eight-member committee from the faculty association will study faculty senate operations in other colleges. Among their duties, the committee members will formulate a constitution based on the best found in faculty senates of the schools they will study.

Dr. Sills said a faculty senate would have a great deal to do with the development of educational and instructional policy.

"A president when he has a good faculty senate, as I'm sure we will, will accept practically everything it comes up with through diligent research," he said.

Sills said the formation of a faculty senate would be a coordinated effort by the administration and the faculty to do what is best for the college.

According to Sills, the faculty senate will have a hand in determining such matters as policies for as curriculum changes and course expansion and revision.

Dr. Sills said, "I am very enthusrd about this faculty senate concept."

He added that he foresees that the senate will ultimately involve the students of the college and that he would make every effort possible toward the "lying together" of the faculty and students.

The eight members on the committee which will study other college faculty senates are Dr. John R. Wildrick, assistant to Dr. Sills, who will represent the administration; Dr. Eugene Stish, representing the graduate school; Robert Williams, humanities; and Mrs. J. Marguerite Wallace, education.

Also William Eden, science and Mathematics; William McFadden, social science and geography; Dr. George Ockershausen, health and physical education; and Dr. Angelo Ortenzi, dean of students, representing the non-teaching faculty.

Eagles rout Cavs; Knights win in OT

NAZARETH — Nazareth reeled off six straight points to open the second period Friday night and went on to a 77-52 win over East Stroudsburg in the Lehigh-Northampton League's Northern Division.

In another game Pen Argyl downed Bangor, 61-57 in overtime.

The Blue Eagles (16-3 overall and 5-0 in the second half) led only 18-17 after the first eight minutes. But they scored the first six points of the second period and were never threatened.

Four players were in double figures for Nazareth with Jim Gyulai showing the way with 19. Steve Shiffert had 17, Lee Caladra 13 and Rich Steiner 12. Steiner also had 21 rebounds before fouling out in the final period.

Matt Hood was high for the Cavaliers with 17 points and 19 rebounds. Art Perryman had 11 points and Tom Kishpaugh 10. Kishpaugh also had 14 rebounds. The Cavaliers (9-10) hit on only 14 of 74 shots from the floor.

A 25-point performance by Troy Davis led Eastburg to a 54-49 win in the JV action.

Blow lead

Bangor had a six-point lead with 5:30 left in the game only to see the Knights tie it at 53-all on four points by Bob Bath and two by Tom Dentith.

Dentith and Randy Ott then matched baskets to send it into overtime.

Bath opened the scoring in the extra period with a 30-foot jumper and then with 48 seconds left Dwight Repsher made a pair of fouls.

Jeff Heard's two fouls closed the gap to 59-57 but Sam Bray hit a layup with 10 seconds left to clinch the win.

Dentith was tops for the winners with 21 while Bath had 13 and Repsher 11. Ridge Hughes had 21 for Bangor.

Bangor salvaged the JV action, 63-51.

Ted's Tidbits

By TED WISMER

Ed Christian, assistant coach at East Stroudsburg High, is the latest entry in the race for the Stroudsburg High football job.

Christian is the eighth person to apply for the position. He has been an assistant under Dick Merring the last two years. Prior to that, he coached in the Wilkes-Barre area and was a standout player for Wilkes College.

Samuel O. Wells III, superintendent of schools, has indicated that no timetable has been drawn up on screening the applicants or when the final decision will be announced.

We did learn that the final decision will not be that of one man. Wells revealed that Jim Hantjis, principal; John Kupice, soon to be named athletic director and himself are expected to determine the next coach.

Switching the subject to baseball for a minute, the West End entry in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League will hold a special meeting Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Bill Haney, Sciota.

Anyone interested in playing for the West End team is invited to attend. Players' contracts will be drawn up and signed.

Officers and directors for the 1969 season are John Wernett, president; Ed Doney, vice president; Anne Shafer, secretary-treasurer; Norman Possinger Jr., manager and Bill Haney, coach. Directors are Dr. Robert Arner, Bill Mawdsley, Paul Hofford and Jim Sobers.

Ned Rahn, of Stroudsburg, is one of three Muhlenberg College basketball players among the four leading scorers in the Southern College Division of the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Rahn is fourth in league scoring with an average of 18.2.

Mickey Miller, a 6-2 junior from Lehighton, leads all scorers with a 20.1 average. Bob McClure is third with an 18.3 average and is also eighth nationally in field goal percentage.

Oklahoma State has lost only 21 dual matches since 1916 and 15 of them have been to Oklahoma.

The most recent setback was to Brigham Young, 16-14 on Feb. 4. The remaining setbacks were to Texas in 1916; Nebraska and Iowa in 1921; Southwestern Oklahoma, 1937 and Iowa State, 1953.

In one of the exhibition matches, Geoff Baum, former state champion from William Allen, scored a fall in the 191-pound bout for Oklahoma State.

BYU will be the scene for this year's 39th NCAA wrestling championships in late March.

Pocono Mountain bombs PV, 82-33

SWIFTWATER — Pocono Mountain closed its Lehigh-Northampton League season Friday night with an easy 82-33 rout of winless Pleasant Valley.

The Cardinals, who have only two games remaining, finished with a 1-4 record for second half play in the Southern Division and 3-7 for both halves. Overall Pocono Mountain is now 5-15.

Pocono Mountain, which visits Pocono Central Catholic tonight, jumped out to an easy 18-8 first period lead and was never threatened.

In the third period the winners outscored the visitors 19-4 with Hunter netting seven and Bill Kerrick six. Rich Nicholas had six and Don Cramer five in the final period as the Cards outshot Pleasant Valley, 19-12.

Hunter led the winners, who had a 56-21 edge in rebounds with Cramer the leader with 14. Wise added 13, Ed Horn 12 and Cramer and Nicholas each 10.

Pocono Mountain hit on 32 of 68 shots from the floor as compared to only 10 of 57 for PV.

The Cardinals also prevailed in the JV game, 54-36 as Rich Weber, Kerrick and Randy Kresge each had 12.

Brad Wise, one of five Cards in double figures had six of his 13 points in the first period. Jack Hunter had seven and Wise five in the second period as the host five outscored the Bears, 26-9.

Hawks nip Celts in overtime

ATLANTA (UPI) — Zelmo Beauty hit a pair of free throws in the final 10 seconds Friday night to ice the Atlanta Hawks' 104-101 overtime victory over the Boston Celtics.

Beauty was an appropriate hero, tossing in 31 points and pulling down a career high of 28 rebounds against the defending champions.

The Celtics got off fast and led by as many as 10 points before Beauty and Lou Hudson pushed the Hawks out front by two points at halftime. The Hawks led by up to six points in the fourth period, before the Celtics tied it.

76ers bow; drop to third place

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—San Francisco spurted in the final period Friday night to set back Philadelphia 127-111 in a National Basketball Association game.

Leading by only 86-84 entering the last quarter, the Warriors quickly opened up a 98-90 lead and the 76ers never threatened again.

San Francisco led 106-92 with 7:14 remaining and was in front by as much as 20 points in the final moments.

Philadelphia had rallied to take a 74-73 advantage with 3:40 remaining in the third period after the Warriors had held a nine-point lead at 73-64.

The 76ers were on top 27-23 after one quarter, but San Francisco was out front 54-46 at the half.

The Warriors biggest lead in the first half came at 50-38 with 3:18 left before halftime.

Jeff Mullins tossed in 36 points to lead the Warriors. Joe Ellis had 23 and Nate Thurmond had 20.

Hal Greer lopped the 76ers scoring with 31.

The loss pushed Philadelphia into third place in the Eastern Division race.

Wallenpaupack tops Delval in OT

HAWLEY — Wallenpaupack outscored Delaware Valley 4-2 in the second overtime period Friday night to gain a 63-61 decision in the Wayne County League. Both teams are now 2-1 in the second half.

The Buckhorns outscored the Warriors, 18-7 in the final period to send the game into overtime.

In the first extra period Ben Nevin accounted for both Buckhorn goals while Rick Litts and Smith scored for Deval. Then in the second extra period Steve Wilson and Lance Farrell scored from the floor for the winners while Smith had the only Deval basket.

Pete Nell accounted for seven of the Buckhorn points in the final period. In the final period Deval lost its leading scorer Ken Ogrodnick on fouls.

Rick Anke led the winners with 14 while Bob McGinnis had 12 and Nell 10. Litts, Smith and Ogrodnick led the losers with 20, 18 and 12 points in that order.

Wallenpaupack also won the JV game, 38-26.

Two share first in Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Veterans Frank Beard and Billy Maxwell bolted from the field in the second round to a tie for the lead in the $100,000 Phoenix Open Friday.

Maxwell, one of seven pros deadlocked after the first round, shot a five-under-par 32-34—66 to go with Thursday's 65 to give him a 36-hole total of 131 at the halfway point of the tournament at the Arizona Country Club.

Beard combined a second round 32-33-65 with his opening 66.

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino barely made the cut of the low 78, which was at two-under-par 140. Trevino was at the cutoff with rounds of 70-70.

Twenty-year tour veteran Julius Boros, who won the 1967 Phoenix Open over this flat 6,509-yard course, was eliminated as he fell to a 72 Friday for 141.

John Jacobs, another of the first round leaders, was tied for second with Don January and 1965 Phoenix Open champion Rod Funseth. Jacobs had a 31-36—67 to go with a 65 for a 132 total. January shot a 33-32—67 in the second round and Funseth matched his first round 66 with a 31-35 effort.

Miller Barber, winner of this year's abbreviated Kaiser International, earned a chance at his second 1969 crown and the $20,000 first prize with a 65-70—135. He was bunched with nine pros including defending champion George Knudson and two-time Phoenix Open winner Gene Littler.

Los Angeles Open champion Charlie Sifford, the only other 1969 winner entered here, failed to make the cut. He had a 70-72—142.

Unheralded Johnny Stevens set a course record of nine-under-par 62 but coupled with his even par Thursday it was good only for a three-way tie three strokes off the pace.

Stevens went out in a scorching 29 with birdies on the first, third, sixth and seventh holes and an eagle on the 491-yard par five eighth. His ball on the eighth hit the flag on his second shot and bounced back to give him a one-foot putt.

Beard managed to tie Maxwell for the lead by dropping in a six-foot birdie putt on the 18th after coming out of a sandtrap on his third shot. He had two bogeys, on the 412-yard fifth hole and the 440-yard 17th.

Tied for third with Stevens were Jack Ewing and Hugh Royer at 133. With the exception of Ewing, all of the top nine scorers in the second round were in the afternoon flight.

Lee Elder, in the second foursome of the morning group and the early second round leader with a 69-65—134, had predicted lower afternoon scores.

Pistons end skid, 128-123

DETROIT (UPI)—Dave Bing and Happy Hairston helped the struggling Detroit Pistons break a two-game losing streak and nip a Phoenix Suns' comeback late in the Friday night game while giving the Pistons a 128-123 National Basketball Association victory.

The Pistons, who led by as much as 25 points in the third quarter, saw their huge margin disappear in a frantic fourth quarter as Phoenix' Jimmy Fox bagged 14 points to lead a surge which tied the game 123-123 with 1:36 remaining in the contest.

Bing, however, hit two straight free throws and a last-second layup around an Otto Moore free throw to ice the game for Detroit.

The loss extended the Suns' road losing streak to 13 straight games and gives the expansion team a 2-25 road mark. Bing finished with 37 points

Mountie frosh bow to Bombers

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg High freshman basketball team dropped a 58-55 decision to Palmerton despite a 21-point performance by Mark Adams.

R. Castenbader led the winners with 15. The Mounties are now 6-2 in Lehigh Valley play and 8-3 overall.

Bullets outlast Milwaukee

BALTIMORE (UPI) - Wes Unseld pulled down a season high of 30 rebounds and scored 28 points to lead the Baltimore Bullets to a hard-earned 132-122 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Friday night in a National Basketball Association game.

It was the fourth straight win for the Eastern Division leaders and fifth in a row over Milwaukee, which has now lost 45 games in 62 starts.

The Bucks drew close with a fourth quarter rally after Baltimore seemingly broke the game open in the third period with a 94-76 advantage. Jon McGlocklin and Flynn Robinson combined for 25 points in Milwaukee's last gasp that pushed the Bucks to within 125-120 with 1:10 left.

McGlocklin finished with 37 and Robinson scored 30 for Milwaukee.

Williams ready to accept Nats offer

Former baseball super-star Ted Williams had a gleam in his eyes when he told reporters Friday that he had not yet signed a contract with the Washington Senators. Williams said he is "awfully close" to signing as manager of the Senators, but that the deal had not been completed. The former Boston Red Sox slugger arrived in Miami after a meeting in Atlanta, Ga. with new Washington owner Robert Short. (UPI Telephoto)

MIAMI (UPI)—Ted Williams, held back by only "a few technicalities," was on the verge Friday of signing a long-term contract that would make him vice president of the Washington Senators as well as manager and give him a stock interest in the club rivaling Vince Lombardi's recent deal with the Washington Redskins.

Williams said he was "awfully close" to signing the contract with the Senators but hadn't yet because there were some outside technicalities to work out.

In Washington, Robert E. Short, new owner of the Senators, said he was "very eager" to have Williams manage the club. He added if Williams does sign the contract he will become a virtual "partner," and "he can have any title he wants."

Short recently purchased the Senators for $9.5-million and it was learned that Williams' contract will be one for at least three years duration and possibly five. It also will call for him to receive a "substantial" amount of stock in the Senators.

Lombardi recently received a similar deal from the Redskins who signed him as coach, general manager and part owner after he was let out of his contract by the Green Bay Packers.

Williams, 50-year-old former Boston Red Sox slugger, said on arrival in Miami from Atlanta that he hopes a deal with Short will be worked out "within 48 hours."

Williams left no doubt that he wants to get back into baseball as manager of the last place Senators, and at a news conference his talk was flatly about what he plans to do. Williams, who has had his runins with newsmen in the past, was cordial and gracious in a news conference at the air terminal.

"I don't know what you're so excited about. Nothing is set yet," said Williams as he came off an airplane dressed in a sports coat and polo shirt and slacks.

"I have talked with Bob Short several times. I saw him in Atlanta. We are awfully close to agreeing. But in all honesty, I haven't signed yet. I can't say just when it will be."

Williams, who looked 10 to 20 pounds over his playing weight around the middle, said, "There are a few things to be worked out — They are not really minor either."

But later in the conversation it sounded as though whatever has still to be worked out will not be impossible to resolve.

"There are a few technicalities, some things to be resolved by the lawyers," said Williams.

Short said in Washington that he is making an all-out effort to sign Williams. But he said reports that Williams had signed were "definitely not true."

Asked if Williams was the first choice, Short said, "He would bring to the game a number of attributes a manager should have."

"I respect Bob Short. He is a great guy, a self-made guy who has a real true interest in sports. He is smart and he is a driver. This is a man who knows what has to be done to get Washington going."

Williams was asked why, after years of making strong statements against any possibility of becoming a manager, he had changed his mind. He held up a copy of Ring Magazine he had been reading on the plane and said:

"Well, a lot of fellows came back to fight again. Not altogether for the money but the money was very important. It is one of the important reasons for me. This proposition is a very attractive one for me. And I love baseball and this is a challenge."

Asked about his plans for Washington, Williams said, "It wouldn't be fair to assume we will win the pennant right off the bat, but it would be fair to say this club is going to improve.

"I'm going to stick it out for a while if this thing goes through. It would not be fair to Bob Short for me to say I am going to stick around for just a year or two. It's going to take longer than that."

Asked about the Washington coaching staff, Williams would say only, "There is at least one good one there —Nellie Fox — that's right. And whatever happens he is going to be a very important guy."

Williams was asked if he planned any innovations as a manager, and he said, "I can't see any great changes I am going to make. I think I can work with the hitters as I know I can work with the pitchers."

Williams said he had seen Washington play last season, "and I could see some things that indicated to me the hitters were not getting the word at the plate."

ANOTHER CHALLENGE - - By Alan Maver

JIM MURRAY

Bucket of thrills

I have this friend, Bob William by name, who, when he isn't teaching Jack Nicklaus or Gary Player the grip, plays this game alone on the practice tee.

He takes a full set of clubs, a bucket of balls and goes down the hill to Riviera to the range, and he plays, say, the National Open. Or the British. Or the Masters. He hits the club the imaginative course calls for, keeps meticulous score, and checks the imaginative leader board for his competition from time to time.

I came up to him one day as he had flown an exceptional wedge 90 yards out to a mounded surface. "That shot puts you in the hunt for the British?" I asked him. He frowned. "Now," he said regretfully, " I left myself a downhill putt. Besides, Arnie's inside me. Never could play the Old Course at St. Andrews. My hook, you know."

Another day, he grabbed me, all excited. "I'm leading the British by two shots!" he exclaimed. "And Roberto just drove it in the deep rough! I need this putt for all the marbles!" And he hurried up the hill to the putting green for the most important putt of his life. On satellite TV.

Ten minutes later, he was still hunched over the putt. He was sweating. His hands were ashaking. "What's the matter?" I asked him. "Can't get the blade back!" he moaned. "Too much pressure.

In a Trap

One time he was spraying shots all over the hill. "Gaining on the field?" I asked him cheerfuly. He shook his head reproachfully. "Won't make the cut," he admitted. "Two buckets of balls already and I haven't come up to 13 yet. I'm in the trap behind the green." He cheered up some. "But this is only the Jacksonville Open. I'm just getting my game ready for the Masters. I play that tomorrow."

Bob never did win the British Open but he had his moments. Hoylake was his course. "They call it 'William's Alley,' he once told me airily. "Peter Thomason had to hole out of a trap to beat me there one year. Bernard Darwin said it was the most exquisite round of golf played since Hagen and Armour."

He could have cheated of course, and played Hoylake rather more often than it would come up in normal sequence at British opens. But he didn't want Harry Vardon sitting up in his sarcophagus.

Bob didn't do so well in the American circuit. "I have to have a course that interests me," he explained. "I never do well in the PGA. All those houses along the fairway."

One of these days, Bob is going to be in a fair way to win the British. Some day, standing in the middle of all those slicers and hookers on the range, he'll be flying that ball out there, a beatific look on his face systematically reducing Hoylake to a municipal course with the accuracy of his play. Some day, word will spread through the clubhouse that Bob is on the imaginary 18th and needs a two to lie Casper and a small amount of people will begin the gather around as he carefully selects his spoon, as his eyes narrow, his lips purse, and someone murmurs, "Never get there with THAT!" And someone else says, "He"ll be through the green with it!" And another says fiercely, "S-h-h-!" And Bob will coil and swing flawlessly and the ball will sail up, up, up. And now, he trudges happily to the green, but two minutes later comes back, his face long and white around the lips. "Make it?" someone will ask. Bob will shake his head, "Catty touched the ball," He will say grimly. "Two stroke penalty. I made third." and he will sit moodily in the clubhouse the next 10 years never touching a club, talking to no one. And the members will whisper in his presence. "Cracked up at the British in '69. Catty marked the ball when he had a 1 to beat owned it, though.

Rose rejects offer of $70,000

CINCINNATI (UPI)—National league batting champion Pete Rose said Friday he had rejected a salary that would make him the Cincinnati Reds' highest paid player in history.

Rose, who had a major league-leading batting average of .335, reportedly was offered a salary of more than $70,000, but his asking price was reported to be around $80,000.

"They say they'll pay me $100,000 when I'm worth it," Rose said. "Well, I'm worth more than they're asking me to take now."

Like most of the major league players, Rose was waiting for the players' pension dispute to be settled with the owners before he signed a contract.

"I can't go against 900 other ballplayers," he said. "Even Mr. Howsam (Reds General Manager Bob Howsam) said he doesn't want me to break my word."

Bear freshmen rout Cardinals

BRODHEADSVILLE — Four players were in double figures Friday as Pleasant Valley's freshmen routed Pocono Mountain, 85-43.

Farron Frey and Rick Miexsell led the winners with 21 points and 24 points in that order. Scott Gordon had 13 and Neal Nicholas 11. Rowe tallied 20 for the losers.

21 on hand as Chisox open camp

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox kicked off the 1969 major league spring training season Friday by opening its camp to pitchers and catchers.

Only 21 of the "early birds" were on hand. A number of others were ticketed to start workouts, but elected to stay away to see how the players-owners negotiations progressed. The players have threatened a strike if the pension question is not resolved.

The White Sox camp opening, beating all other teams by several days, was the first major test of the boycott threat. There were few familiar names in the 21 who reported Friday and nine of those on hand were rookies.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, pointed out there were no "name" players —guys like Gary Peters and Joe Horlen—reporting in.

Miller, meanwhile, recessed the negotiation meetings until Monday.

"We expected a number of minor league players invited to camp would show up," Miller said.

"Where are the name players?" Miller asked "They (the White Sox) certainly can't field a team with what they've got there."

The 12 players on the main roster who reported to manager Al Lopez were catchers Russ Nixon, Gail Hopkins, Ed Hermann and Doug Adams, and pitchers Fred Rath, Don Secrist, Billy Wynne, Paul Edmondson, Mickey Vandehy, Jim Magnuson, Mickey Abarbanel and Dan Osinski.

The White Sox' early training date was necessary because the club is scheduled to play a series of games in Mexico City early this spring.

Pavletich prepared to sit out '69

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Catcher Don Pavletich of the Chicago White Sox said Friday he is prepared to sit out the 1969 season if the pension squabble between major league players and club owners is not settled.

"I don't want to see it go that far, but we are all prepared to stick to our guns and see the thing through," Pavletich said. He has already agreed verbally to terms of his 1969 contract, but he hasn't actually signed.

"I got a raise over what I received at Cincinnati but I can't sign until this pension issue is settled" Pavletich told Lou Chapman of the Milwaukee Sentinel. Pavletich was obtained by the Sox during the winter from the Reds.

Pavletich said he understood "90 per cent of our players won't budge" from their threatened boycott unless the pension issue is settled.

The White Sox began spring drills for pitchers and catchers today at Sarasota, Fla.

Bruins lose center

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Bruins center Derek Sanderson will be sidelined for two or three weeks with a sprained-left knee, the team announced Wednesday.

Kuhn is thinking beyond one year

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bowie Kuhn, baseball's temporary commissioner, sounds like a man who came to stay.

Top priority went to urgent, short-range problems but he's also thinking far, far into the future and beyond the one-year contract baseball handed him on Feb. 11.

In his first week as commissioner, Kuhn plunged into the crisis on player relations. Second priority went to a handshaking program to meet the people who snorted, "Bowie Who?" when he was lifted from comparative obscurity to No. 1.

He has talked of the need to "restructure" the game, an idea presented originally during the firing of Air Force Gen. William D. Eckert in December.

But Bowie Kuhn's legal training makes it imperative for him to get the facts, Ma'am, and that's what takes his mind into the distant future.

"I think the time has come for baseball to take a very hard look at itself," says Bowie. "I'm concerned by the amount of criticism heaped upon baseball. And I am puzzled by it.

"Maybe what we feel isn't altogether right. Maybe something is wrong with our judgement."

Someone pointed out that while attendance was down slightly last season—perhaps because both leagues had runaway pennant races—the majors still pulled more than 23 million customers during the regular season.

"You can take statistics and do whatever you want with them," Kuhn replied. "But baseball can't be satisfied with statistics. Baseball has to keep pace with the country's growth both in population and national product."

Baseball failed to keep pace last year.

The National League drew 11,785,358, down 1.2 million from 1967 and down 3.2 million from the all-time record of 15,015,431 set in 1966.

The AL pulled 11,316,452, down roughly 30,000 from '67 but 1.15 million better than 1966.

Making the statistics "do whatever you want," it's worth mentioning the St. Louis Cardinals wrecked the N L races early the last two years. The Cards won by nine games last season and 108 1-2 the year before in the biggest runaway since 1955.

National League fans don't take kindly to runaways. When the 1966 record was achieved, the Los Angeles Dodgers had to go to 7 p.m. (EDT) on the final day to clinch the pennant over the San Francisco Giants. And Pittsburgh still was "alive" on the next to last day.

In the AL last year, Detroit clinched early and won by 12 full games. Theoretically, attendance should have dropped more than it did.

Gate appeal was strong for most of the season, however, as a result of the dizzy 1967 race in which the Boston Red Sox beat out two rivals on the final day and another dropped out right near the end.

What will happen to baseball interest under the new East-West division set-up is anyone's guess.

But if Bowie Kuhn's thinking about the future comes up with a formula for a hot pennant race every season he'll be commissioner for life.

Conigliaro gets final greenlight

BOSTON (UPI)—Tony Conigliaro, the Boston Red Sox slugger whose career was cut short by a tragic eye injury, is ready for spring training following a final eye examination.

Conigliaro, who was hit in the left eye two years ago by a pitched ball, has been given the final greenlight, Red Sox public relations director Bill Crowley said Thursday.

"Prior to the accident, Tony had 20-15 vision in both eyes," Crowley said. "Now the doctors say he still has 20-15 in the right eye, but that his left eye which was damaged now is 20-20 which is normal vision."

Cavalier frosh down Knights

PEN ARGYL — Jules Shackelford's 26 points paced the East Stroudsburg High freshmen to a 70-38 rout of Pen Argyl Friday. Zimmerman added 16 for the Cavaliers.

High for the losers were Gold and Cregear with 13 and 11 points in that order.

Valentine, Salerno still unemployed

HOUSTON (UPI)—Bill Valentine was waiting on a heart-shaped card of affection on his own special day. He was waiting on some sign, any sign, that he will be able to return to the ranks of the employed among American League umpires.

Valentine and Al Salerno were fired by President Joe Cronin last Sept. 16, after they began organizing the umpires into a union. They continued their work and finished the job Sept. 30.

It cost them $3,000 personally, but it will be worth it several times over if the 20 National League umpires 'and the remaining 18 in the American League act on their behalf.

"Our profession is in their hands," Valentine said after refereeing a Rice-Dayton University basketball game earlier this week. "The umpires have got to back us. If they don't it's a miscarriage of justice.

"If it hadn't been for us, they would not have been organized. They would have got their pittance raise of $500-$1,000 this year and that would have been it."

Valentine said the umpire's new economic agreement this season closed the gap with the higher paid National League umpires "considerably."

There was a $7,750 difference between the top men in the two leagues last year. The new contracts also call for identical pay for spring training games, where the American League lagged $20 a game last year, and also identical expense allowances, where they drew $5 a day less last season.

The National League umpires were organized several years ago.

The umpires, however, have signed their 1969 contracts on the advice of the union's attorney, John Reynolds of Chicago, and will start working spring games early next month. This puts them in a peculiar condition to strike and leaves Valentine and Salerno in a most unsettling predicament.

"You wake up every morning wondering if you are going to have a job," he said. "I'll tell you, it's been a long winter. He (Cronin) has sure messed up my life.

"You've got 18 years of your life wrapped up in this and you don't know which way to turn. Who's going to hire you in a management-training program and invest $8,000-10,000 in your initially when they know you will return to baseball if your case is settled quickly?"

He spoke of the case before the National Labor Relations Board, where the pair contended they were fired for union activity. But these cases sometimes drag out for two or three years.

"If we don't work for that long, you can forget it," Valentine said. Who can stay in prime condition that long without working?"

Valentine, 36, who lives in Little Rock, Ark., with his wife during the off season, referees Missouri Valley and Southwest Conference basketball games in the winter. He said he and Salerno, 37, were offered jobs in the International League, but it would not be economically feasible on a permanent basis.

But he is hoping for relief from his new umpire's union.

"They're going to accept that money and those expenses," he said. "How, in good conscience, can they not back us?"

St. Valentine was a martyr. He lost his head in 269 A.D. for organizing Christians. Maybe Bill Valentine will be a martyr. He lost his head in 1968 for organizing umpires.

Cardinalettes clinch L-N tie

SWIFTWATER — The Pocono Mountain girls clinched at least a tie for Lehigh-Northampton League honors Friday with a 46-16 win over Pleasant Valley.

Jeanne Waynar and Sharon Wallingford led the winners (11-2) with 19 and 15 poins in that order. Rose Ann Koeler had six for the losers.

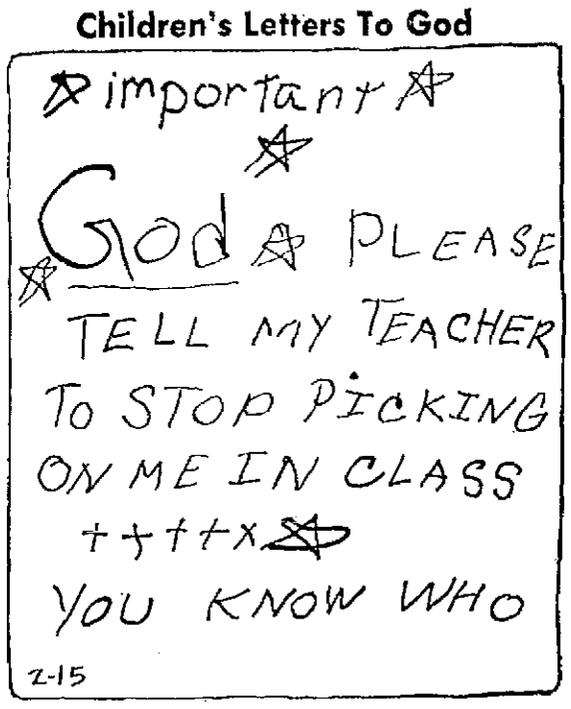
Children's Letters To God



Ann Landers

Release hostilities

Dear Ann Landers: Perhaps I can help the woman who had a terrible problem with her child when a second baby arrived. I lived through a very difficult time until I hit on a solution.

Our son was two and a half years old when his little sister was born. I had to remain with them constantly to catch flying objects and prevent him from pinching and hitting her. After months of policing the boy I could stand it no longer. I became so angry I came within inches of spanking the living daylights out of him.

Suddenly I realized that if I, an adult, could not contain my anger, how could I expect a two and a half year old child to contain his? When I get very angry I feel like striking out at something. So I reasoned if he were half as angry as I, he must feel like striking out at something, too.

I made a game of it. When we became angry we went together and kicked all the soft furniture in the room. Then we kicked the floor as hard as we could.

You can't believe the change that came over this boy. Within days he was a wonderful child again. Please tell parents not to intensify a child's anger by spanking him. Instead show him to direct his anger toward an inanimate object — and get rid of it.

HOOSIER STATE MOM

Dear Mom: Hostile feelings must be released. If children could be taught to vent their anger against furniture and not other people, they would grow up to be healthier and happier adults and we could close some of our reform schools and penitentiaries.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter Mary was going steady with Arthur. After he left for Vietnam they exchanged letters three times a week.

Then Chuck appeared on the scene. Her letters to Arthur fell off. Chuck kept pressing to be her one and only. Mary stopped writing to Arthur completely.

Four months later Mary accepted a diamond from Chuck and the wedding plans were set. Then Arthur came home. Mary saw him on the sly and the poor girl was a wreck. She couldn't make up her mind which boy she loved. Until the day of the wedding I wasn't sure she'd go through with it.

Well, Mary did marry Chuck and that was eight months ago. Last week she told me she made a mistake. She says Chuck is a bore and she is in love with Arthur. She is sure if she divorces Chuck, Arthur will marry her although she has not seen him since the wedding.

I am ashamed to go to a preacher with this. You can't imagine how it hurts a mother's heart to see her 19-year-old daughter looking for a second husband already. What can I do?

SHATTERED MOM

Dear Mom: Nothing. This is your daughter's problem. Unfortunately Mary wasn't ready for marriage. If she chucks Chuck and marries Arthur she'll probably decide in eight months that Arthur is a bore. This girl has a lot of growing up to do before she can be a fit wife for anybody.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥	3 ♣
4 ♥

Opening lead—six of clubs.

Just as declarer's first consideration must be to make the contract, a defender's first consideration must be to beat the contract. In attempting to meet this objective, a keen defender will make any and all assumptions that may be necessary for defeat of the contract.

Consider this deal where West leads the six of clubs, on which East plays the king and South the queen. There is no way for East to know at this point whether West or South has the missing four of clubs.

Declarer's queen play may be on the level—that is, he may have only the singleton queen—or it may be a deliberate falsecard designed to persuade East that West has the missing four.

East must make a decision at this point, and he should assume that South has the four because otherwise the contract cannot be beaten. To concede declarer the singleton queen of clubs would be equivalent to conceding the contract.

So East returns the eight of clubs at trick two, hoping his partner will ruff. (Note that East returns the highest card he can spare so that, if West ruffs, he will lead back the highest suit, spades.)

West obliges on both scores by ruffing the club and returning a spade to East's ace. This is the third trick for the defense. When East now leads another low club, South is ready to be carted off to the hospital. Sooner or later he must lose a diamond to go down one.

If East permits himself to be fooled and shifts to another suit at trick two on the assumption that it is West who has the doubleton club, he allows declarer to make the contract. East's central thought must be to try to beat the contract, and to be consistent with this, he must arbitrarily consign the four of clubs to South.

Your tax problems

"Your Tax Problems" is published as a public service and is prepared by the Philadelphia District Office of the Internal Revenue Service. Send queries to the Internal Revenue Service Public Information Officer, P. O. Box 12805, Philadelphia, Pa. 19108. For personal replies give name and address.

Q. What taxes can I deduct on my return?

A. You may deduct state and local income, sales, gasoline, personal property, and real estate taxes.

Deductions are not allowed for: Federal taxes, drivers licenses, state and local taxes on alcoholic beverages, tobacco and certain miscellaneous taxes. Also, the cost of auto tags are deductible only to the extent they are based on the value of your car.

Q. How much can a self-employed person deduct for contributions to a retirement plan?

A. A self-employed person can set aside up to 10 percent of his earned income in an approved plan with a maximum of $2,500, and deduct this on his return. This is explained in Publication 560, "Retirement Plans for Self-Employed Individuals". Send a post card to your District office to obtain a free copy.

Q. The tax form I got in the mail only shows my name on the label. Since I'm filing jointly with my wife this year, should I use the label or not?

A. Use the label on the form you file but add your wife's first name and social security number to it. Write this in ink at the bottom of the label.

Q. Is an assessment for sewer sidewalk construction deductible?

A. The law generally does not permit deductions for assessments for local benefits that tend to increase the value of the property. Capitalize the amount of assessment, however, and add it to the basis of your property.

Q. Can you exclude more than $100 in dividends from taxes if you file a joint return?

A. On joint returns, each taxpayer may exclude up to $100 in dividends received on stock he and she owns either jointly or individually. Therefore, a maximum of $200 may be excluded in these circumstances.

If all the dividends are received entirely by either the husband or wife, then the dividend exclusion is $100 even on a joint return.

Q. I retired from the Post Office Department in November 1968. Some of my retired co-workers tell me I don't have to file a tax return for a couple of years due to accumulation of my funds. Is this correct?

A. If you will recover your cost, that is, the amount you paid into the retirement fund, within three years, you report nothing until you so recover. After you receive — tax free — the amount you paid into the fund, the amount you receive each year is fully taxable. You may, of course, be entitled to retirement income credit when you start reporting this income.

School heads to attend convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — School administrators from Monroe County will be attending the "Pennsylvania Breakfast" on Tuesday in Atlantic City where some 300 Pennsylvania school administrators are expected to join the national gathering.

The breakfast is a feature of the five-day conference of the American Association of School Administrators opening Saturday and running through Wednesday. Attending from the area will be:

East Stroudsburg School District: Mrs. Pauline H. Peterson, superintendent, accompanied by the administrative assistant, Gerald Fritz; director of elementary education, John Lambert and assistant high school principal, Cummings Piatt. School board members, Irving Somer and Dr. Richard Kruger will also be attending.

Earl F. Groner, superintendent, will represent Stroudsburg School District.

Pocono Mountain School District will be represented by William F. Nye, superintendent, and David E. Neison, district business manager.

No one will be attending from the Pleasant Valley School District.

Wayne County blood unit success

HONESDALE — The Wayne County Chapter, American Red Cross Blood program, has been rated first in priority for the Northeastern Pennsylvania Blood Center, Wilkes-Barre.

The top rating was received and has been maintained by the chapter for successful bloodmobile campaigns.

During the recent bloodmobile, a total 227 pints of blood were collected.

The majority of donors are from community groups which sent donors to each bloodmobile.

Following are the volunteers who aided in the recent visit and the donors:

Break mended

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Church services in English have been resumed at the Afrikaans Groote Kerk after a break of 53 years. The church is a main center of worship for the Nederduitse Gereformeerde Kerk, largest of South Africa's three Dutch Reformed churches, which uses the Afrikaans language.

Your Horoscope
By Francis Drake

Saturday, February 15

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — If someone really irritates you, take off for another area. If that is impossible, then get set with him or her on fair practices and live-and-let live procedures. Control emotions.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Gain extra time for special interests by consolidation, cutting red tape, eliminating unessentials. But be careful not to omit important details which could be highly important. THINK!

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury auspicious. You can accomplish a great deal now. Plan, negotiate, ask and grant favors, call meetings, analyze propositions which seem to have good potentialities.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Mixed influences. Carelessness in "minor" matters could cause a series of unwanted occurrences, reactions. Use your wit and graciousness to hold the line.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your frankness and generosity are the positive traits emphasized under this day's good aspects. Put these to clever use, and stress practical execution in all your endeavors. Benefits increasing.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Friendly influences. Cooperate with them all the way. Tend duties first, without straining, then share mutual interests with family. Stress friendly cooperation.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — While there is little to prevent you from carrying on as planned, as you must, there are unexpected events and details that may crop up, so be ready.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Tread warily, to avoid needless errors and rubbing others the wrong way. Tact and understanding will do a great deal to keep matters going smoothly. Gains possible.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Planets indicate some complications not easily unravelled. Yet, by diligent process, you will be able to rack up more than just fair results, and build a stronger foundation for the future.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Better-than-average prospects, but you will have to grasp the good things firmly, and quickly put aside the undesirable. Use your best judgment.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Harmony and self-control needed now. Don't antagonize those in a position to help you. Aim to improve ideas and methods.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Wade through possible difficult issues, or relax in the pressureless periods. Whichever, you will need these traits: Imagination, ability to see the humorless side, steadiness.

YOU BORN TODAY: The Sign of Aquarius bestows refinement, a love of knowledge and great artistry. Innately, you do all things neatly, thoroughly and conscientiously, but you can become almost too meticulous about details, not only becoming overwrought yourself when the most minute things go wrong, but unduly criticizing others involved in them with you. Curb this trait lest you get the reputation of being a carping "fuss-budget." Actually, you have a charming, lovable personality and, extremely gregarious, make friends easily. Don't lose them unnecessarily. Birthdate of: Galileo, astronomer, physicist.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 2-15

Zion church plans fete for members

STROUDSBURG — Zion United Church of Christ, 14 N. 8th St., Stroudsburg, will hold a new members ingathering on Sunday at 11 a.m. New members being brought into the church will be feted at a reception following a shortened worship hour.

Pastor Marshall Rin will preach on the subject "Under the Circumstances." The sermon will deal with the problems and circumstances of life that face every person and which are usually thought to be insurmountable.

Church school will be held at 9:45 a.m. and meeting at the same time will be the final session of the New Members Group.

At 6:30 p.m., a special Youth Fellowship program will be held in the Fellowship Room with the "Owl of Light" instrumental-vocal group.

P. M. graduate wins honors

COBLESKILL, N.Y. — Robert Yarborough, a 1968 graduate of Pocono Mountain High School, has been named to the Dean's List for the Fall Semester at the State University of New York Agricultrual and Technical College, Cobleskill, N.Y.

Yarborough is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Yarborough, Bunker Hill Rd., Princeton, N.J. He is a freshman at the college majoring in agronomy.

Stone-age murals

SANTANDER, Spain (AP) — Special filters have been installed in the lights of the Altamira cave to protect its stone-age murals. The prehistoric drawings are estimated to be between 17,000 and 20,000 years old. Technicians said ultraviolet radiation from neon lights in the cave was causing the ancient paint to fade.

Upkeep costly

OTTAWA (AP) — The government paid $53,828 to maintain and operate Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's home in Ottawa in the 1967-68 fiscal year, a House of Commons report showed. The year before the cost was $65,949.
